I hope the PM and the BJP govt will leave their stubbornness and focus on farmer welfare, ensure MSP and evolve a consensus with state govts, farmer organisations and opposition parties before taking any such step in future

Congress president Sonia Gandhi

Ultimately, as UP and Punjab elections came closer and particularly when the BJP saw the reaction of farmers in the villages of Haryana and Punjab and some other states, they decided to withdraw the three farm laws

NCP chief Sharad Pawar

My heartfelt congratulations to every single farmer who fought relentlessly and were not fazed by the cruelty with which @BJP4India treated you. My deepest condolences to everyone who lost their loved ones in this fight

ROUNDS OF TALKS WERE HELD BETWEEN THE CENTRE AND FARMERS

Farmers celebrate after Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced the decision to repeal the farm laws, at the Singhu border in New Delhi on Friday | PTI

Constitutional process to repeal laws will be completed in the upcoming session of Parliament starting later this month, says Modi; fears of widening Sikh-Hindu divide in Punjab and possible heavy poll reverses in western UP because of agrarian unrest responsible for sharp climbdown

FARM LAWS WEEDED OUT FOR GOOD

MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Friday sprang a surprise by announcing the process to repeal three contentious laws farmers were agitated about, marking a sharp climbdown in the face of electoral challenges in five states, including Uttar Pradesh, early next year.

Apologising for "deficiency" in explaining the merits of the laws to "some of the farmers", Modi sought to take the moral high ground, saying "Whatever I did, I did for the farmers and whatever I am doing, I am doing for the country." He also announced the constitution of a committee to look into minimum support prices (MSP) mechanism to make it more transparent and effective.

"In the upcoming Parliament session starting at the end of this month, we will complete the constitutional process to repeal the three farm laws," Modi said.

Timing his address to the nation with Guru Purab, the birth anniversary of Guru Nanak, Modi urged the agitating farmers to call off their protests and return home. "Let's make a fresh start. Let's move with a fresh beginning," he said.

The backdrop to the announcement was set up by former Punjab chief minister Captain Amarinder Singh raising security concerns in the state in his meetings with Union home minister Amit Shah after quitting the Congress, besides growing concerns within the BJP of the heavy cost, particularly in UP, where about one-fourth of the Assembly constituencies were seen to be directly affected by the farm protests.

The perceived anger of Sikhs in Punjab against the BJP and Modi in particular due to the farm laws, apparently precipitated the climbdown. The NDA had under similar circumstances let the Land Amendment Ordinances to lapse in 2015.

With Shah set to take direct charge of the western and Braj parts of UP, which together account for over 130 Assembly constituencies, the repeal could help him rework his maneuvering to win back the support of the formidable Jats. Also, for the BJP's plan to materialise to ride piggyback on Amarinder Singh in Punjab to work on the Jat Sikh and the Hindu vote base, a face saver for him had become mandatory. The prospects of the Aam Admi Party gaining from multi-cornered contests in Punjab had also been worrying the BJP lately.

"While apologising to the countrymen, today I want to say sincerely that perhaps there must have been some deficiency in our penance that we couldn't explain the truth like the light of the lamp to the farmer brothers," said Modi. He added that the government had brought in the farm laws with good intentions after extensive deliberations with stakeholders.

Pain points in the three farm sector reform laws

1 THE FARMER'S PRODUCE TRADE AND COMMERCE (PROMOTION AND FACILITATION) ACT, 2020

It allows farmers to trade their produce outside the physical markets notified under various state Agricultural Produce Marketing Committee laws. Farmers feared the new rules would lead to inadequate demand for their produce in local markets. They said transporting the produce outside mandis would not be possible because of lack of resources

2 FARMERS (EMPOWERMENT AND PROTECTION) AGREEMENT OF PRICE ASSURANCE AND FARM SERVICES ACT, 2020

Will create legal framework for contract farming under which farmers enter into a direct pact with a buyer before sowing season to sell produce at pre-determined prices. Farmers worried that it would lead to corporatisation of agriculture and the end of the MSP regime. There were concerns that the contract system would make small and marginal farmers vulnerable to exploitation from big companies

3 ESSENTIAL COMMODITIES (AMENDMENT) ACT, 2020

It will take away Centre's powers to impose stockholding limit on food items, except under extraordinary circumstances. Market forces would determine stock limits on farming produce. No specific opposition to this provision, but it is seen as contrary to the objective of the main law, which is to maintain regular supply of essentials at a fair price for consumers

'NEXT FIGHT IS FOR MSP GUARANTEE'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi / Chandigarh

WHILE all farmer unions have welcomed the government's decision to repeal the contentious farm laws, they are not ready to call off their agitation yet. The Samyukta Kisan Morcha (SKM), the umbrella organisation of various farm unions, and the Bharatiya Kisan Union (BKU) said they will not stop the protests unless the laws are repealed fully in Parliament.

SKM said it has plans for the next three-four months including visiting poll-bound Uttar Pradesh, keeping an eye on the winter session of Parliament, and organising large-scale protests across the country on January 26. It also said that a concrete plan of action will be decided in a meeting of farmers' leaders on Saturday. SKM leader Darshan Pal said there are two distinct issues comprising the farm laws and Minimum Support Price. "SKM reminds the Prime Minister that the agitation is not just for the repeal of the three black laws, but also for a statutory guarantee of remunerative prices for all agricultural produce and for all farmers. This important demand of farmers is still pending. So is the withdrawal of the Electricity Amendment Bill. SKM will take note of all developments, hold its meeting soon and announce further decisions," an SKM statement read.

BKU's Rakesh Tikait said that farmers' agitation wouldn't die down anytime soon and will continue till Parliament repeals these laws. "The agitation will not be withdrawn immediately, we will wait for the day when agricultural laws will be repealed in Parliament. Along with MSP, the government should also discuss other issues of farmers," Tikait tweeted.

We brought in the laws for the welfare of farmers... but were not able to explain to some farmers such a sacred thing

- Prime Minister Narendra Modi

Salutes to our farmers and their brave struggle which has led to the repeal of Modi's three black farm laws. We must not forget the sacrifice of 750 farmers who lost their lives in this struggle

- CPI(M) general secretary Sitaram Yechury

The protest won't be withdrawn immediately, we will wait for the day when the farm laws are repealed in Parliament. Along with Minimum Support Price, the government should talk to farmers on other issues too

State looks to set up land banks in all districts

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

Focus on all sectors

The State Government is also planning to set up one industrial park in every district with focus on different sectors. Under this, a pharma park in Yadgiri, textile and jewellery parks in Kalaburgi, IT park in Hubbali-Dharwad, an industrial corridor in Tumakuru and Dharwad districts are envisaged

GEARING up to host the next edition of the Global Investors' Meet (GIM) in 2022, the State Government has decided to set up land banks in every district and is also looking for land to develop industrial parks.

The Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Board (KIADB) has started identifying land to be developed where investors can set up industries in future. According to officials, more land means more investors investing in Karnataka, thus creating more employment opportunities.

"Several investors and firms are expected to participate in the GIM 2022. When they come, it is imperative to have readily available land in every district. We should be in a position to provide them the required land in every district. Medium and Large Scale Industries Minister Murugesh Nirani is keen on providing land to more investors to generate jobs," an official from the Department of Industries and Commerce told TNIE.

Officials point out that presently, the government is in possession of 5,000 acres of developed land suitable to set up industries. "But for the GIM, we need at least 30,000 acres ready by late next year when investors arrive for the meet. The Joint Directors of the Industries Department, along with land surveyors and district Deputy Commissioners, are identifying suitable land. The KIADB will convert the land for industry use," they explained.

'CRASH' COURSE

'Traffic jams' in space has scientists worried

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@ Bengaluru

IT'S just not on city roads that we have to contend with traffic jams. Space scientists are worried over the increasing number of satellites in the lunar orbit, and more so in Earth's orbit. This worry of an imminent "traffic jam" in space — mainly in the orbits of the Earth, Moon and (in future) Mars — found expression at the crossover session of the Sydney Dialogue at the Bengaluru Tech Summit on Friday. Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) Chairman K Sivan called for a collaborative approach in Space

Situational Awareness (SSA) by tracking objects in orbit and predicting where they will be at any given time.

The ISRO chief particularly stressed on the importance of all space agencies collaborating with each other to track objects in space and mitigate threats of collisions or near-collisions, and stressed that the role of the QUAD (the USA, Australia, Japan and India) will be more significant in this regard.

Sivan's appeal gains significance in the background of a projected near-collision between India's Chandrayaan-2 orbiter (CH2O) and Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL)/National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) Lunar Reconnaissance Orbiter (LRO), both in the lunar orbit, and how it was avoided through data exchange and collaboration.

The extremely close conjunction between CH2O and LRO was expected to occur on October 20 at 11:15 am IST over the Lunar North Pole. A week prior to that, analyses by ISRO and JPL/NASA showed the separation between the two spacecraft will be less than 100 metres. The data exchange between ISRO and JPL/NASA highlighted the importance of undertaking a collision avoidance manoeuvre, and it was mutually agreed that CH2O will make the manoeuvre. The move was carried out at 8.22 pm on October 18, and CH2O's modified orbit confirmed that there will be no further close conjunctions between the two spacecraft in the lunar orbit.

Water board goes all out to treat sewage

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

WITH nearly 75% of daily sewage of 1,440 Million Litres Per Day generated in the core area of the city taken care of by the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage (BWSSB) network, it is now going all out to extend its reach to ensure a larger coverage.

B Gangadhar, Chief Engineer, Waste Water Management, BWSSB, said that the water board was looking at covering between 90% and 95% of the 575 sqkm area in the city within four months. This does not include the 110 villages which were added to form Greater Bengaluru.

"At present, we manage to treat 1,070 MLD of sewage by sending them through our 34 sewage treatment plants. The remaining untreated sewage ends up in drains. We are looking at diverting it through our main sewerage pipeline," he said.

The major new STPs are the ones at Vrishabhavati Valley (150 MLD capacity), KC Valley (150 MLD), Hebbal (100 MLD) and an old STP at K&C Valley (218 MLD). Asked about the areas not under its sewage network, Gangadhar said some portion in Mahalakshmi Layout, Vijayanagar, Nagarbhavi and Rajajinagar are yet to be covered. The peripheral areas running into 225 sqm are covered by an ongoing project, Cauvery Vth Stage, and is funded by Japan International Cooperation Agency.

BENGALURU BEARS BRUNT OF FLOODED ROADS, INCESSANT RAIN

From inundated roads to tree falls & house collapse, it's déjà vu for residents every monsoon

DONNA EVA @Bengaluru

FED up with unresponsive civic agencies and the continuous downpour creating numerous problems, residents in several localities have resorted to clearing water-logging by themselves. On Thursday and Friday, there were numerous reports of water logging on roads, trees falling and buildings collapsing across the city.

On a residential street off Basavanapura Main Road, flooding was almost up to knee level. Residents had to wade through water before the blockage was finally cleared. Though a complaint was made to the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP), the residents dealt with the flooding themselves.

"Some of us, including a local fruit vendor, cleared the drains. Due to the flooding and rain, it had gotten blocked with soil and rocks, which caused more flooding," said Nishanth G, a resident of Basavanapura. No one had come from BBMP to check on the flooding, though a complaint was lodged, he said.

Heavy flooding was also witnessed at Junnisandra and Green Villa Layout in Mahadevapura, where sewage regularly overflows. Apartments like Rainbow Drive in Bellandur and Kendriya Vihar in Yelahanka were also inundated, with people wading through nearly waist-deep water.

Similarly, other reports of water logging were lodged all across the city, from Dasarahalli, where Mallasandra Lake was reported to have overflowed, to Hulimavu, where a massive traffic jam occurred next to the Hulimavu metro station construction site. There was heavy flooding in areas like Hulimavu, KR Puram and Marathahalli.

"There was a lot of flooding next to the Marathahalli underpass, ITI and Tin Factory, making it very difficult to drive," said Nishanth. In addition to Marathahalli underpass, the KR Puram underpass was also completely flooded. Near Hulimavu on Bannerghatta Road, roads were waterlogged from Thursday night well into Friday and water overflowed into Arekere Lake.

Blockages in storm water drains near RMZ Ecospace, Bellandur, were cleared to allow water to flow. Despite this, the water reportedly flooded on to Bellandur Gate Road.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta visited the site where a building had collapsed on Milkman Street in Halasuru on Friday. The 58-year-old two-storeyed building collapsed due to incessant rain, but no casualties were reported. "I have instructed officials to demolish two buildings in the vicinity that are in a dilapidated condition," he announced on social media.

Two trees fell near RT Nagar and Trinity Circle on Friday. There were several reports of compound walls and dilapidated house walls collapsing in Nandini Layout, Panduranga Nagar, R R Nagar, Mahalakshmipuram Layout and Subramanya Layout. A mud hut also reportedly collapsed in Herohalli. Water-logging complaints also came from several other places in Mahadevapura as well as Chalavadipalya.

After petrol, tomato hits ₹100, use them wisely

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE humble tomato is now on par with the elitist petrol: both cost Rs 100. It is now a prized possession in every household, and being consumed judiciously.

The price of tomatoes has been on the rise for the past few weeks, with one kilo now costing Rs 98-100 in the retail market, and Rs 93 in Hopcoms outlets.

It's the effect of the incessant November rain, say tomato farmers, traders and vendors. Farmers complain that standing crop has been damaged in most parts of the state.

The rain has also affected the quality of tomatoes. Homemakers, having bought the pricey vegetable, have to deal with worms, rotten inner layers and stench, and are forced to throw them out.

Hopcoms Procurement and Marketing Manager N Jayaprakash says prices are high because of the rain havoc. Tomatoes cost Rs 93 in Hopcoms outlets, but if rain continues, prices will continue to go north in the coming days. However, in the retail market, prices are Rs 4-5 higher, depending on the location -- it costs Rs 100 in malls, and in some parts of Bengaluru, good quality tomatoes are sold at Rs 100 even on roadsides.

Same is the case with onions, which cost Rs 53 per kg, compared to Rs 26 three months ago, said Jayaprakash. He added that crops grown in poly houses are surviving and the quality is good, but crops grown in open fields have been unable to withstand the rain fury.

"The weekly budget is fluctuating because of rising prices of essential kitchen items. Not just tomatoes, all items cost more, making it difficult to cook a proper meal," said Sakshi K, a homemaker.

Muniraj, from APMC Market, Kolar, said prices drop when there is no rain, and the crop is good too. This time, crops were damaged in Tiptur, Tumakuru, Chikkaballapur and most parts of Karnataka. The crop survived only in parts of Kolar.

Hotel associations have been holding discussions to raise prices at restaurants due to the rise in cost of vegetables, pulses and LPG. After much deliberation, most of them hiked rates by 5-15 per cent.

Last year, before the first lockdown, cooking oil cost Rs 1,300 for 15 litres, and now costs over Rs 2,500. Same is the case with coffee powder. Most vegetables are not available because of the rain, so prices have increased, said Veerendra Kamat, Secretary, Bruhat Bengaluru Hotels Association.

Take steps to curb accidents on Ballari road, cops tell NHAI

ENS @Bengaluru

SENIOR traffic police officers on Friday inspected the spot at Chikkajala on Ballari road, where an SUV had crashed into a cab on Thursday, and instructed National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) officials to take measures to prevent such accidents. Two women and a cab driver died on the spot after the overspeeding SUV collided into the cab on the other carriageway after jumping the median.

Speaking to TNIE, Joint Commissioner (Traffic) B R Ravikanthe Gowda said, "We have given clear instructions to NHAI to take all necessary steps, including installing proper lighting on the road and raising the height of the road median to prevent accidents. We also warned them that legal action will be taken against them if they fail to do it immediately." Bharath B R (22), who was driving the SUV, told the police that he did not notice the median due to heavy rain and that he lost control over the vehicle as it was at high speed. The police also have collected blood samples of Bharath and are not ruling out that he was under the influence of alcohol. A case of negligence and reckless driving has been registered by Chikkajala traffic police against Bharath.

The mangled remains of the car involved in the accident on Thursday

Purnima Ravindran, (63) and her daughter Lakshmi Ravindran, (37), hailing from West Bengal, were heading to the airport when the accident occurred. The cab driver Raghavendra (46), a resident of Bannerghatta, also died. Lakshmi, who was residing in London, had come to Bengaluru to attend yoga classes along with her mother. Bharath and his friend Vikas, who were in the SUV, sustained injuries. On Friday, the bodies of the deceased were handed over to the families after post-mortem.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

20th November: Today's key planet is Saturn, the celestial task-master. It has decreed that this is a moment when harmony and diplomacy reign. My conclusion is that people who rely on force to get their own way may come seriously unstuck. The best solution is always to seek the best compromise available.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Venus, planet of love, is now in a lively situation, a fact of some considerable significance. Although this is inclined to make you a little self-centred, you will gradually find it easier to accept affection and express your feelings to the people who count.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You are not alone in experiencing wonderfully auspicious stars. All I can say is that it is up to you to create the conditions in which you permit such pleasurable influences into your life by leaving yourself open to whatever happens and steering clear of conflict.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Evening stars look best if entertaining or passionate encounters are on your mind. Don't allow the pressures of the day to force you into cancelling engagements. Relationships with children will improve if you make it clear that there are lines which should never be crossed, but offer plenty of security as well.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Although in general it's a day to deal with practical chores, I think that you won't get very far if you try to tackle outstanding domestic issues. These may be best left until tomorrow when your lunar patterns begin to look more business like.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The Sun's relationship with Neptune is romantic in the broadest sense, arousing dreams of future success. However, the fact that work and routine chores are set to loom large over the weekend will bring you back down to earth. There are ways to ease problems by throwing money at them.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Although you may still feel out on a limb or out of touch, it may help to know that your stars are still broadly helpful. Issues of principle are dear to your heart. Travel plans may be delayed or deferred but relations with children should be better than before.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Adverse alignments to planets in strategic zones of your solar chart are overwhelmed by easy ones. There's a natural evolution to the day's developments and after a while you will become aware of a change in mood and very soon partners will be encouraging you to recover your rightful place.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
If somebody you know is being terribly annoying or just plain uncooperative, you know what you have to do about it. Be strongly Scorpionic and let them learn from their own mistakes, secure in the knowledge that they will come round and agree with you in the end.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Once in a while, you are given the chance to back up your dreams with some hard cash. I am not saying that every penny spent now will produce results, but the stars are advising you to investigate new investments. By the way, a secret will be revealed within the next couple of days.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
A confrontation or clash of wills is unlikely to materialise, perhaps because you instinctively see the way out of any difficulty. It is far more likely that family relationships will improve, even though the emotional temperature will be heightened over the next week.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
There is a light at the end of the tunnel, and everything is better than it seems. The present gloom is largely a mirage created by the backwards movement of that tricky planet, Mercury. In point of fact, your personal prospects are pretty bright.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You are going to have to balance your own energetic desire to get your own way against the fact that others may have the organisational edge. You can take the path of least resistance and let partners assume control. Or you can say enough-is-enough and set the pace at home.

The state with speedy connectivity

Former US president John F. Kennedy's statement that "American roads are not good because America is rich, but America is rich because American roads are good" has been for years inspiring many leaders and state planners around the world. No other statement or quotation explains economic importance of good quality roads. It has inspired even the Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath who while taking the initiative to upgrade infrastructure for rapid economic growth of the state decided to connect every part of the state with high quality speedy connectivity coming through expressways and airways.

In the past 56 months of Yogi Adityanath regime, the state government has created a network of expressways to accelerate the growth of the state. It is opening up new avenues of immense developmental possibilities in all parts of the state. On November 16 last, the Prime Minister, Narendra Modi, inaugurated the newest expressway of Uttar Pradesh, the Purvanchal Expressway. The state is currently working on four other expressways, viz. Bundelkhand Expressway, Ganga Expressway, Gorakhpur Link Expressway and the Ballia Link Expressway. The state already had the Yamuna Expressway between Noida and Agra and the Lucknow-Agra expressway.

Purvanchal Expressway

The 341-km long Purvanchal Expressway inaugurated by the Prime Minister Narendra Modi on November 16 last connects the state capital Lucknow with far eastern district Ghazipur. The six-lane expressway has given easy and fast access to whole of the eastern Uttar Pradesh. It will also give Bihar and other eastern states a faster road access to Delhi. Importance of this expressway will further grow with the completion of the Gorakhpur Link Expressway and the Ballia Link expressway that will merge into this expressway.

The foundation stone of this expressway was laid by the Prime Minister Narendra Modi on 14th July, 2018 in Azamgarh. Work on the expressway built at a cost of ₹ 22,497 crore had almost completed in 39 months in spite of the COVID-19 impact since March 2020.

The Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath has been taking personal interest in expressways as he firmly believes that the network of expressways will speed up the development of the state. The Purvanchal Expressway received more of his attention for being first of such projects and its link with Gorakhpur and other eastern UP districts including Barabanki, Sultanpur, Amethi and Ayodhya Ambedkar Nagar, Azamgarh, Mau and Ghazipur.

Purvanchal Expressway has several special features. Instead of stones, honeycomb-shaped geocells have been installed on both sides of the expressway. Also, to ensure the strength and durability of the road, rubber resin has been used in place of asphalt. Various safety measures have been installed to prevent accidents. On its route, there are seven railway over-bridges, seven major bridges, 220 underpasses and a 3.2-km long airstrip at Kurebhar in Sultanpur district. This airstrip may be used by the Indian Air Force for landing and take-off of its fighter jets in case of emergency.

Gorakhpur Link Expressway

The Gorakhpur Link Expressway connecting Gorakhpur with the Purvanchal Expressway in Azamgarh district passes through Ambedkar Nagar, and Sant Kabir Nagar districts. Its total length is 91.352 km. Being built at the cost of Rs 5876.68 crore, it is a four-lane expressway, which can be widened to six lanes. Apart from several bridges along its way, the entire stretch of the expressway has a one-side service lane. More than 70 per cent of its work has been completed.

Ballia Link Expressway

In December 2020 the state cabinet also approved the Ballia Link expressway project to connect Ballia with the Purvanchal Expressway. This approximately 35 kilometres long four lane link expressway would cost approximately Rs 1500 crore. It will also be expandable up to six lanes.

With the Purvanchal expressway and its link expressways, all eastern UP districts are going to have express connection with the national capital region via the Lucknow-Agra and Yamuna expressways.

Bundelkhand Expressway

The other important and major expressway project nearing completion is the Bundelkhand Expressway project. Almost 75% work on this 296-kilometres long four-lane (expandable to six lanes) project has been completed.

This expressway originates at Bharatkoop in Chitrakoot district and passing through Banda, Hamirpur, Jalaun and Auraiya districts, it joins the Agra-Lucknow experessway near Auriya-Etawah border. Once operational, the travel time from any part of the Bundelkhand towards Lucknow or the NCR region would get reduced by four to five hours. This will create a hoard of new opportunities for the people of drought-prone Bundelkhand that largely depends on agriculture. This will prompt various Industries to come to the area. It may be recalled that the UP Defence Industrial Corridor has two nodes – Jhansi and Chitrakoot – in the Bundelkhand region and it is bound to ensure arrival of industries and their ancillaries in the region. This shall definitely create employment opportunities and better opportunities for trade and commerce. Agriculturists of the region shall also benefit with faster and easier access to larger markets. A number of cultural centers and historical places lying in the region, even tourism is touted to get a fillip with the expressway that is expected to be opened for traffic by the end of the year.

Ganga Expressway

The Ganga Expressway is another dream project of the Yogi government. This 594-kilometre-long expressway connecting Meerut in the north west of the state to Prayagraj in the south east was approved by the state cabinet in November 2020 and initial ground work on the project was launched with the acquisition of land from January 2021. The government has also decided to extend it at both end –from Meerut to Hardwar and from Prayagraj to Varanasi - to create unhindered road connectivity between Hardwar and Varanasi.

As alignment and technical details of the stretches approved by the government in February 2021 are yet to be finalized, work on the Ganga Expressway in its originally conceived and approved form, from Meerut to Prayagraj, is progressing rapidly. More than 98 percent of the required land has been acquired and further working is on. The six-lane access-controlled expressway will pass through, Hapur, Amroha, Bulandshahr, Sambhal, Badaun, Shahjahanpur, Farrukhabad, Hardoi, Kannauj, Unnao, Rae Bareli and Pratapgarh. Its total length will be a little more than 594 km. Its estimated cost is Rs 36,402 crore. The six-lane expressway will have provisions for being expanded to eight lanes.

Looking at the speed with which the expressways are being built across Uttar Pradesh, Prime Minister Modi had said, "Uttar Pradesh has forged a strong identity for itself as an express state. The state is working on mega connectivity schemes worth thousands of crores. With progress in every field, UP is moving fast."

Asia's largest airport at Jewar

Jewar airport remains high on the Yogi government's agenda. The construction of "Noida International Airport, Jewar" is progressing as scheduled following approval of the master plan of the airport by the central government. The airport is being constructed by the Zurich Airport International AG through its SPV (Special Purpose Vehicle) Yamuna International Airport Pvt Ltd. The proposed Jewar airport has to be developed in four stages and decks have been cleared with acquisition of 1336 hectares of land earmarked for the first phase of the project.

Development of this airport is of extreme importance for rapid industrial growth of UP. It is also important for air connectivity in the whole national capital region as the IGI airport in Delhi is nearing its peak capacity. The traffic pressure on Delhi-bound air routes immediately requires another airport in the vicinity.

Establishment of Jewar Airport also holds promises of creating more investment opportunities in Uttar Pradesh besides giving impetus to the tourism sector. The Jewar airport would be connected with high speed rail while the Indira Gandhi Airport would be connected to it by road and metro rail.

Recently the UP Chief Minister had expressed happiness over the progress of the work of Jewar Airport, which according to him should be a unique specimen of Indian architecture. This will be the fifth international airport in Uttar Pradesh.

Connecting with the world through air

If one were to single out a trait of the transformation Uttar Pradesh has undergone during the past 55 months, most probably it would be the infrastructure enabling faster connectivity on surface and in the air. The increasing air connectivity is virtually unlocking the land-locked Uttar Pradesh. With the inauguration of international airport at Kushinagar recently, UP now has nine fully operational airports with three of them being international airports. Apart from these, 11 new airports, including two international, are at different stages of development. It may be recalled that till 2017, the state had only Lucknow, Varanasi, Gorakhpur and Agra airports.

Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath's focus on development of faster connectivity as the most important infrastructure required for rapid development of the state is visible. Airports are coming up in all strategic locations of the state to give the people fastest possible physical connectivity with other parts of the world. During the Yogi Adityanath regime, flights have started from Prayagraj, Kanpur, Hindon (Ghaziabad) and Bareilly airports. From Nov 1, three new direct flights to Bangalore, Hyderabad abd Mumbai were started from Kanpur. Development of these airports and direct flights is bound to make the state more attractive to the industries, international investors and tourists. Such development also helps create numerous direct and indirect employment opportunities and prompts higher exports from the state.

Speaking at the inauguration of Kushinagar International airport, the Chief Minister said it will boost tourism in the Buddhist circuit and generate employment opportunities. He also reminded that Ayodhya international airport is coming up rapidly and air connectivity in the state is getting strengthened, which will provide an impetus for development.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi, while inaugurating the Kushinagar International Airport, said that this was a `manifestation of decades of aspirations and efforts`. "This was my commitment and we have fulfilled it. We have laid special emphasis on linking Buddhist destinations, improving hospitality facilities and ensuring the comfort of tourists. This airport will not only serve tourists from India but also Buddhists from across the world, including Sri Lanka, Thailand, Korea, Japan, Cambodia and other countries," he said. To mark the occasion, an inaugural flight of the Sri Lankan Airlines had brought Buddhist seers from Sri Lanka to Kushinagar.

Kushinagar -The place of Mahaparinirvana

International airport at Kushinagar is a major achievement as it is one the most important places of Buddhist interest. It lies almost in the centre of the Buddhist tourist circuit in Uttar Pradesh, Bihar and Nepal. The place draws a large number of tourists on pilgrimage from countries including Thailand, China, Malaysia, Japan, Singapore, Sri Lanka and some other countries every year. The Kushinagar airport will make their pilgrimage Lumbini, Shravasti and Kapilvastu easier as these places are not very distant from Kushinagar. Other destinations like Bodh Gaya and Sarnath too are easily approachable from here. Pilgrims will also be able to visit Vaishali, Rajgir, Kesariya and Sankisa in considerably lesser time. Its vicinity with the Nepal border and also the state of Bihar ensures that it will also cater to a large number of domestic passengers, including thousands of migrant workers who work in the rest of India or abroad. To boost connectivity the central government has decided to operate direct flights from Delhi airport to Kushinagar airport for four times a week. These operations will start on November 26. Kolkata and Mumbai airports will also have direct connectivity with Kushinagar.

Ayodhya International Airport

Apart from Kushinagar, the central and state governments are working in tandem to start operation of international airlines from Ayodhya by 2022 and Jewar by 2024. Construction of Noida Airport at Jewar is the dream project of the Yogi government. It will be Asia's largest airport.

After beginning of construction of the Ram temple in Ayodhya, the state and central governments have decided to develop Ayodhya as an international tourist destination. Detailed development plan for the holy city includes an international airport to enable domestic and foreign devotees and tourists reach Ayodhya easily. The state government has already sanctioned Rs 525 crore on this project. The Ram temple is likely to multiply the number of devotees visiting Ayodhya.

Move not aimed at Assembly polls, says BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru, Hubballi

CHIEF Minister Basavarj Bommai and former chief minister BS Yediyurappa on Friday hailed Prime Minister Narendra Modi's decision to repeal the three farms laws saying the move had nothing to do with Assembly elections due in five states.

Speaking to the media in Bengaluru on Friday, Bommai said the PM's announcement shows that the Union Government is responsive to the farmers' demands. Slamming Congress for taking trying to take credit for the Centre's decision to repeal the farm laws, Bommai said the decision has nothing to do with the upcoming elections in five states. He said the farm laws were part of the Centre's intent to bring reforms in the agriculture sector and agri-marketing in accordance with the World Trade Organisation agreement signed during the UPA government."It was the UPA which prepared the draft of the farm laws. The draft was revised by incorporating suggestions from state governments. The laws had provisions for farmers to sell produce directly to buyers. Farmers, largely in Punjab and Haryana, were agitating for continuation of regulated market system," Bommai told the media. He said the decision has no connection with elections in five states and the BJP had won by-elections even in the midst of protests. "The PM felt that some more discussions were necessary and the government felt that withdrawing the laws will build confidence among people," he said.

Historic decision: BSY

In Hubballi, Yediyurappa said that the PM's has made the announcement without making it a prestige issue. Calling the move historic, the BJP leader said, "We did what the farmers wanted. Farmers felt that there were some shortcomings in the new laws. The Modi government did try to address them to a large extent," he added.

He claimed that the move has no link with the upcoming elections in five sates. "BJP is a formidable force in UP. The party has almost won the poll there... the elections are a mere formality," he added. "No question of victory or defeat of the government arises with regard to the decision to repeal the laws," he added.

'Battle half won': Farmer leaders want state amendments to go next

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

ON the day Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced a repeal of the three farm laws, agriculture experts and farmer leaders in Karnataka demanded that the State Government repeal amendments to the APMC Act and Karnataka Land Reforms Act.

To facilitate the implementation of the Central Act, the Karnataka Government amended the Agriculture Produce Market Committee (APMC) Act. "Karnataka was one step ahead. It amended the APMC Act and even implemented it. It has to repeal the amendments," agri expert and former chairman of Karnataka Agriculture Price Commission Dr TN Prakash Kammaradi told TNIE.

By amending the Act, APMC jurisdiction was restricted to only its physical boundary. They have no control outside the premises as private firms can directly procure agricultural produce from farmers. Farmers organisations, as well as Opposition parties, opposed the move stating it was against the original objective of the Act to keep middlemen away and ensure there is no exploitation of farmers.

According to Kammaradi's assessment, transactions at the APMCs have come down by 60-80%. "Amendments to the APMC Act and Land Reforms Act in the state have to be repealed," he added.

Samyukta Horata, Karnataka, a coalition of farmers, Dalits and labour organisations, that is spearheading the agitation in the state also urged Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai to repeal amendments to the Acts failing which they will intensify the agitation. "After farmers protested for a year, the PM realised the mistake and announced the decision to repeal the farm laws. However, the BJP government in the state is speedily implementing the amendments to the APMC Act and Land Reforms Act," a farmer leader said. The forum has called for a meeting on Saturday to discuss details about its protest on November 26.

Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha president Kodihalli Chandrashekar said the BJP government in the state had amended the APMC Act and implemented it. "Now that the Centre has decided to repeal the three farm laws, the state should withdraw the amendments to the APMC Act and Karnataka Land Reforms Act. The agitation will not end now," he declared.

Cong demands compensation for dead farmers' kin

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IT was a "we told you so" moment for the Congress on Friday, when Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced a repeal of the farm laws. A jubilant Congress, which had led protests and opposed the laws in the assembly, claimed credit for the change in policy.

Opposition leader Siddaramaiah tweeted, "@Narendramodi & @BJP4India has withdrawn anti-farmer laws – a result of relentless opposition by farmers & @INCIndia. My sincere thanks to all the farmers, Congress leaders & concerned citizens of our country." In another tweet he said, "Now that @BJP4India has finally realised their mistake & withdrawn anti-farmer laws. It is time to give justice to the farmers who were martyred during the struggle. I urge @PMOIndia to announce Rs 25 lakh to the deceased farmers. Farmers have finally got their independence!! This is the outcome of democracy!! No matter how strong a dictator is, he will have to finally bow down to people in democracy. Freedom for Farmers!! #Jai Kissan."

KPCC president D K Shivakumar tweeted, "From day one Congress has been protesting against the 'Dark' farm laws. In this context the words spoken by Rahul Gandhi who said, 'Mark my words, the government will have to take back the anti-farm laws' have come true. This is a victory for the farmers..."

"....This is also a victory of Gandhiji's ideals of Satyagraha and Non-Violence, which have always been the guiding light for the Congress party. Given the delay in the repeal which led to loss of precious lives, the government must acknowledge that 700+ farmers who died in this long struggle were martyrs. It must also ensure compensation and government jobs for their family members," he tweeted.

JDS leader and former CM HD Kumaraswamy tweeted, "PM Modi's announcement of withdrawal of 3 agricultural laws which had caused the farmers to agitate, is welcome. Polls to five states is due. Let the decision of the Centre be an honest one. Let it not just be a High drama that is being played out for votes alone. The PM should have apologised for the excesses against farmers."

Gaganyaan will help sustain humans in space

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @ Bengaluru

THE Gaganyaan programme is a stepping stone for establishing sustained human presence in outer space, said ISRO Chairman K Sivan, talking about human space flight being a good candidate for international cooperation. This comes at a time when several countries are collaborating on the Artemis mission (crewed Moon landing mission) but there is no public announcement by the Indian space agency to team up with USA's programme. Sivan, though, believed in the potential of the Moon to serve as an observatory to study the signatures of global warming on Earth.

He was talking at the Crossover session of Sydney Dialogues at Bengaluru Tech Summit 2021, on Friday. Sivan, meanwhile, expressed confidence in strengthening international collaboration with other countries through Gaganyaan itself. He iterated that with the Gaganyaan mission, India is cooperating with CNES, France on space medicine, Canada and Romania on wind tunnel testing, Australia and European Space Agency on ground station support, while astronaut candidates have completed the Russian leg of their training at Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Centre. "I'm sure the cooperation will continue and lead to increased engagement with international partners," Sivan said. Talking about existing collaboration by Japan, Hiroshi Yamakawa, President, Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency (JAXA), recalled Hayabusa2, a sample-return mission with Australia where samples were recovered from asteroid Ryugu in 2020, "It was a great achievement." He spoke of plans for a joint mission to the moon, with Japan providing a rover and India a lander.

'Reduce hurdles for semiconductor sector'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE government has done a fantastic job of investment housekeeping to reduce hurdles in setting up an ecosystem for materials and equipment in India, and financing hurdles – all of which have dramatically improved in the past decade, said Krishnan Srinivasan, Managing Director, Lam Research, at the Bengaluru Tech Summit. He was focussing on specific sets of policies and programmes to incentivise people to come and set up shop here for the semiconductor industry.

"Policy should be to set up to invite or entice existing vendors to set up shop in India and provide them with an ecosystem where their product can be certified and qualified," Krishnan added, speaking of the ease of doing business.

Women entrepreneurs say ecosystem better now

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

ON the final day of Bengaluru Tech Summit 2021, women technopreneurs running successful startups, spelled out challenges for them whose hours at work far exceed a woman counterpart with a 9-to-5 job.

Shivani Poddar, co-founder and CEO of Faballey and Indya online fashion stores, revealed that she was apprehensive about telling her board that she was pregnant for six months, till it became apparent.

Tanushree Nagori, co-founder of Doubtnut, said she had called one investor after three months of having conceived, and he asked why she was sounding apologetic. "It gave me so much confidence when he said it's not that you're building the company for three or four years alone, but for your life or 10 years -- you can't not have a personal life because you're building a company," she said. If investors and the community make you feel welcome, and not guilty for getting married or having a child, it can be a breeze, it's that confidence you need, she said.

Hena Mehta, founder and CEO, Basis, who is three years into her journey, said there is evolution across the board. Nagori believed India is a better place for women to break the glass ceiling as a full-time entrepreneur, considering the support system of grandparents taking care of children, and easy availability of domestic help.

Full safety in space impossible in isolation

WHILE there are just nine spacecraft currently in the lunar orbit, according to the Union of Concerned Scientists there are 3,372 big and small active satellites in the Earth's orbit. This ushers an urgency for collaboration among various space agencies to avoid satellite collisions, more so in the Earth's orbit than in the lunar or Martian orbits. Sivan said a comprehensive SSA was impossible in isolation, and collaboration with other space agencies was imperative.

Hiroshi Yamakawa, president, Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency, too admitted that transparency is important in sustainable use of outer space, and collaboration is imperative with space stations needing information from other countries on satellites and space debris. "Or else, due to heavy traffic, there may be a good chance of collision among satellites or space debris," he said. Sivan suggested establishing a new observation facility in the southern hemisphere under the QUAD framework. The facility can leverage the countries' unique geographical advantages and data shared among member states though a suitable mechanism, he said.

At Jan Swaraj Yatra, Yediyurappa reiterates his solo state tour plan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hubballi

IN what seems to be like a snub to the BJP state leadership, senior party leader and former chief minister BS Yediyurappa on Friday reiterated that he would once again tour the state after the MLC polls on December 10 to strengthen the party ahead of the 2023 Assembly polls.

Making this announcement while addressing a rally as part of the BJP's Jan Swaraj Yatra in Hubballi, the 78-year-old said that he would visit one district every week and hold meetings with party workers to further strengthen party base. "Efforts would be made to win over all communities and those people who are yet to come to the party's fold," he added. Reiterating that strengthening the party was vital to win more than 140 seats in the 2023 Assembly polls, Yediyurappa asked party workers to be in the midst of the public and respond to their problems. "Also, grievances of SCs and STs should be addressed to win their confidence," he added. In the ensuing MLC polls, BJP was contesting in 20 of the 25 seats and will win in 18, he said, adding that the Congress was facing existential crisis.

Transport Minister B Sriramulu called Congress leader Rahul Gandhi a part-time politician, and said, "No one will have any idea on his whereabouts after elections. While we practice development politics, Congress follows scam politics," he quipped.

State gets pat for Covid home management

NITI report features best practices - monitoring of home-quarantined patients, transparent distribution of oxygen

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

KARNATAKA is one of the states which features in NITI Aayog's report on best practices adopted for home-based management of Covid-19.

The state government partnered with private entities, including Swasth, Portea and StepOne, to provide care to home-quarantined/isolated patients as well as connect them to facility care, if needed. The efforts included teleconsultation and triaging, training of health workers and providing ambulance services and medicines.

"The state government ensured that health teams from the district health authority, BBMP, authorised private institutions and agencies visited the patient's home to ensure they were isolated. Alternatively, an empanelled agency handled telephonic medical triage by confirming the person was isolating. A dedicated tele-monitoring link was established for the patient's daily follow-up during the entire period of home isolation," NITI Aayog stated.

Govt ensured that health teams from the district health authority, BBMP, authorised private institutions and agencies visited the patient's home to ensure they were isolated
NITI Aayog report

In the first wave of the pandemic, the health department, with help of Swasth, provided teleconsultation to home-isolated Covid-19 patients.

A total of 5,204 patients were monitored by the NGO (July to September 2020). Subsequently, from October 2020, the health department partnered with Portea to provide home care, including attendant support, to Covid-19 patients. Teleconsultation was made available to home-isolated cases via StepOne and Portea Medical. For medical and non-medical emergencies, patients were given an escalation number.

To manage and distribute medical oxygen efficiently and transparently at all levels, the government, in May 2021, decided to set up an oxygen cell in each district, which would function 24x7. The cell coordinated with hospitals and met their demand if there was any shortage. As of May 2021, Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (RGUHS) trained over 7,000 final-year MBBS students to treat and monitor home-isolated cases.

The report admitted that due to lack of awareness about Covid-19 Care Centres (CCC), only 30 per cent of the 19,300 beds were occupied in 289 newly set-up CCCs in 227 taluks in May. Of the 3,218 CCC beds in Bengaluru, 90 per cent were vacant in May 2021.

Public facilities bad, urban poor opt for pvt healthcare

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DESPITE there being a 10-fold difference in cost between public and private health facilities, the urban poor are increasingly opting for non-government care, revealed a report by Azim Premji University, titled 'Health Care Equity in Urban India'.

"Availability of urban public health services via urban Primary Health Centres, falls far short of the government's own norms by about 40% across the country. In addition, the available facilities are poorly distributed, and often located far away from slums and other areas that house the most vulnerable," the study stated.

For example, 30 per cent of even the poorest quintile in India seek delivery care from private sources, resulting in high out-of-pocket expenditure. Such inequities in access to, and cost of services, result in the poor delaying or entirely forgoing health services, particularly those with chronic conditions requiring long-term care.

The study also pointed to a disproportionate disease burden on the poor, where life expectancy among the poorest is lower by 9.1 years among men and 6.3 years among women, compared to the richest in urban areas.

"For some health conditions, the disease burden is higher among the urban poor when compared to the rural poor, such as underweight, obesity and tuberculosis among children. The exposure to risk factors such as alcohol, khaini and smoking are much higher among the urban poor as compared to urban rich and rural poor. Mental ill-health is also more prevalent in urban areas, especially in lower socio-economic groups and women," the report found.

The study examined health systems in Bengaluru, Raipur, Thiruvananthapuram and Davanagere where a major governance challenge is overlapping jurisdictions of state health services and urban local bodies, causing chaos.

"Lack of sufficient health personnel in government facilities, including doctors, nurses and other paramedics, as well as poor infrastructure and lack of essentials such as drugs and consumables, are a direct result of abysmally low budget allocations to urban health," the study said, adding that funding for urban primary health needs to be three-fold.

Availability of urban public health services via urban Primary Health Centres, falls far short of the government's own norms by about 40% across the country – Study

POINTS IN CASE

1. In KG Halli slum of Bengaluru, Primary Health Centres don't always have access to medicine and lab services, and don't stock all medicines to manage Non-Communicable Diseases
2. Dysfunctional referral mechanism overloads tertiary care centres. In Davanagere and KG Halli slum, even normal deliveries are referred to tertiary level hospitals
3. In Bengaluru, 16% of households in the slum spent over 10% of household income on out-patient care. Spend on chronic diseases worsened poverty, with some households borrowing money or selling assets

Report highlights communal policing

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A fact-finding report has revealed that there were at least 71 incidents of communal policing in Dakshina Kannada district till September this year, and various Hindutva organisations were involved in this without any fear of consequences or action.

'From Communal Policing to Hate Crimes: The attack on Ambedkar's Dream of Fraternity - A report on Dakshin Kannada January-September 2021', a fact-finding report by the People's Union for Civil Liberties - Karnataka, All India Lawyers Association for Justice, All India People's Forum and Gaurilankeshnews.com, states that every incident was aimed at establishing the supremacy of the Hindu community.

The report, which was released here on Friday, recommended that such incidents can be curbed by taking effective preventive action against all those who disturb communal peace and registering FIRs in every case of hate crime or communal violence among others.

ACB conducts raid at BDA office

ENS @Bengaluru

A 70-strong team of the Anti Corruption Bureau on Friday evening swooped down on the BDA head-office on Kumara Park West and raided the offices of top officials. The raid, which began a little past 4 pm, continued till the night.

The ACB had taken up a suo motu case following complaints by the public that BDA staff expected bribes through middlemen for jobs carried out by them and were involved in corruption and irregularities in allotment of BDA sites.

Officials examine documents at the BDA office in Bengaluru on Friday

An official statement from ACB said, "During the raid, it is found that sites have been distributed illegally to people though they were not eligible. Prima facie, it is found that BDA officers and the staff, conniving with some private associations, has flouted the norms of the authority to benefit them. Several documents have been seized during the search operation."

A top BDA source said that the raid had to do with irregularities in allotment of sites by Deputy Secretaries as well as land acquisition officers. The BDA has four Deputy Secretaries with each one of them in-charge of allotment of sites of specific dimensions. "Many documents pertaining to site allotment and some cash from the table drawers of officials were also taken away by the ACB team," the source said.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi spoke with Chief Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy over phone and enquired about the situation in the State due to heavy rains. The Chief Minister explained about the high intensity situation in Nellore, Anantapur, Kadapa and Chittoor districts due to heavy rains and the steps being taken by his government. He told the Prime Minister that on a request made, Indian Air Force helicopters were being pressed into service and have rescued atleast 10 persons in Anantapur district. The Prime Minister assured of all help to the State.

The worst affected was Kadapa district where 600-700 mm rainfall was received within a span of 24 hours. "The heavy floods had breached the earthen bund of Annamaiah project around 6.30 am and inundated several villages downstream," collector V Vijayarama Raju said. K'taka CM tells officials to keep rain damage videos ready

@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday held a meeting with the deputy commissioners and chief executive officers (CEOs) of zilla panchayats to take stock of the situation arising out of untimely rains in several parts of the state.

"When the central team arrives the next time to assess the loss due to rain and floods in Karnataka, the officials concerned, including the DCs and ZP CEOs, should be ready with material, including videos and photographs, to impress upon them. As the situation might be different from the current situation, you should be equipped with such material so that it will help Karnataka get its share of compensation," Bommai told the officials.

Bommai, according to sources, also instructed the DCs to utilise the funds in their accounts to manage disaster and use their discretion to release compensation to the affected people.

He also instructed the officials to asses the losses and upload the information online for necessary action by the government.

"I have instructed the DCs and the CEOs to submit a report on crop loss. There were initial reports of damage to paddy and jowar crops. Once the report is submitted, steps will be taken to provide compensation to the affected farmers," Bommai told the media later. The CM was also briefed on the damage to horticulture crops and damage to properties, including houses, owing to the recent rains, sources said.

Revenue Minister R Ashoka, Housing Minister V Somanna, Horticulture Minister Muniratna, Chief Secretary P Ravi Kumar and other officials took part in the video conference.

Karnataka releases 30 tmcft more to Tamil Nadu for Oct-Nov period

K SHIVA KUMAR @ MYSURU

WITH rain continuously lashing the region for over a week now, and all reservoirs and tanks brimming, Karnataka has released 30 tmcft of excess water Tamil Nadu so far. The state is required to release 43 tmcft in October-November as per the final award of the Cauvery River Authority, but has released 73 tmcft of water till November 18. Also, about 35,000 cusecs of runoff water is flowing daily from the Krishnaraja Sagar, Kabini, Arakavathy and Shimsha dams as the rains are yet to recede.

Irrigation Department officials said that 18,000 cusecs of water is being released from KRS while maintaining the maximum reservoir level of 124.80 ft. Apart from this, 4,500 cusecs of water is being released from the Kabini reservoir and about 7,000 cusecs from Iggalur dam in Maddur taluk. The water level in the Arakavathy river is also rising steadily due to heavy rains in Bengaluru.

Anticipating further increase in discharge, the Forest Department has withdrawn boating facilities at the Ranganathittu Bird Sanctuary. The bathing ghats along the Cauvery river have been barricaded and patrolling stepped up.

Copious rain in neighbouring Chamarajanagar, Mandya and Ramanagara districts has led to increased inflow at Mettur dam in Tamil Nadu. The discharge of water into the sea from the Mettur reservoir has irked farmers in the Cauvery catchment area who are demanding that the Union Government clear the Mekedatu project as it will help store surplus water, rather than letting it into the sea.

The farmers claimed that about 50 tmcft of water has gone waste and this will increase if the rain continues. Farmers' leader Kurbur Shanthakumar stressed that there is a need for a reservoir at Mekadatu in the interest of both Karnataka and Tamil Nadu farmers as it will help store and utilise surplus water.

Meanwhile, Irrigation Department officials, led by Chief Engineer Shankergowda, inspected the Kabini right bank canal which has caved in following rains. The officials said they are monitoring the release of water into the canal that irrigates 1.10 lakh acres in Mysuru district.

Naidu breaks down, vows not to return to House

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

OPPOSITION leader and TDP chief N Chandrababu Naidu on Friday broke down into tears and in a choked voice, sought to know why his wife Bhuvaneswari was being dragged into political mudslinging by the ruling YSRC. Hurt at what he termed as repeated humiliations and insults heaped on him by the YSRC, the former chief minister said he could take it no more.

He was speaking at a press conference after walking out of the Assembly in a huff. Naidu, before his walkout, declared that he would return to the House only as the Chief Minister and appealed to the people to understand why he had to take such a decision.

It all started during the discussion on agriculture sector on the second day of the Assembly session which witnessed dramatic moments with Naidu and his party legislators clashing with the YSRC members -- which culminated in his walkout. Naidu, who literally broke into tears in the House, said he was pained by the slurs on him and his family members. "I remained calm and composed for the past two-and-a-half years and have been bearing all insults. Today, my wife was targeted... I can take it no more," he said. As Naidu continued to speak, Speaker Tammineni Sitaram disconnected the mike. With folded hands, Naidu walked out of the House along with his members vowing to step back into the Assembly as a CM only.

Later, Naidu addressed media where he expressed deep sorrow over the alleged charges made by the ruling YSRC leaders against his wife on the floor of the Assembly. Naidu burst into tears over dragging his wife into the 'dirty politics'. An inconsolable Naidu kept weeping for nearly two minutes.

DEMOCRACY'S VICTORY SHOWS LIMITS OF PARLIAMENTARY POWER

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's sudden and rather unexpected announcement to repeal the three contentious farm laws is only the second occasion when the government he leads has had to blink in the face of massive opposition. The first one was when it had to withdraw the proposed land reforms laws. In a brief address to the nation, Modi apologised to the citizens and regretted that he was not able to explain the benefits of the laws to a section of farmers who have been agitating for more than a year against them. But while the pushback on the land reforms bill was enacted more in the hallowed portals of Parliament, the opposition to the farm laws was largely on the streets led by ordinary farmers. So if at all, the government's U-turn on the controversial laws is a victory only of the farmers, no one else's. Many opposition parties tried to ride on the farmers' agitation for their selfish political and electoral gains, but the government would not have yielded had it not been for the sacrifices of the hands that till and feed the country. It also underlines the fact that in a democracy, it is the will of the people that is supreme, that sustained public pressure can unsettle even powerful governments enjoying a brute majority in Parliament, and that there is still space for dissent, despite what many critics of this government may say of its style of functioning and behaviour.

But that said, the government's about-turn appears to be dictated purely by the political damage the laws had the potential to inflict in the coming Assembly elections, particularly in Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand. The BJP has been on the backfoot in UP, particularly in the western part dominated by the farming community. The region has 136 Assembly seats out of a total 403 and in the last state polls, the BJP had won a massive 109 of them. Uttarakhand is also critical to the saffron party and here also it is facing an uphill task. Going forward, the government must make it a point to hold wide consultations, especially when it has to tread on the slippery surface of economic reforms.

KIIFB IS NOT BEYOND ACCOUNTABILITY

On the first Audit Diwas, observed on November 16, PM Narendra Modi showered praise on the Comptroller and Auditor General and said the time when auditing was seen with suspicion and fear was over. On the same day, Kerala CM Pinarayi Vijayan indirectly referred to the CAG as a "sadist element" that wants to halt the state's progress. What agitated him was the CAG's report on state finances for 2020 tabled in the Assembly last week. For the second consecutive year, the CAG levelled serious criticisms against the state-run Kerala Infrastructure Investment Fund Board (KIIFB) and warned that the state was walking towards a debt trap. The off-budget borrowings worth thousands of crores availed by KIIFB for funding infrastructure projects and the Kerala Social Security Pension Limited (KSSPL) for providing social security pensions bypassed the net borrowing ceiling of the state, observed the CAG. Borrowings by both the entities are liabilities of the government and hence should be included in the annual budget and accounts, the country's top auditor suggested.

The suggestion didn't go down well with the LDF government. KIIFB claims it is an independent financial institution that works on a growing annuity payment model and not an off-budget arrangement to avail loans. To substantiate this, KIIFB lists out budgetary allocation of fuel cess and a portion of motor vehicle tax as its sources of income. But it's an admission that it has no revenue of its own and the state government has to defray its debt obligations. The basic question as to how a company that earns all its revenue from the state budget can claim that its borrowings and expenditure are outside the budget's purview still remains unanswered. Nobody disputes the fact that projects funded by KIIFB have helped fast-track infrastructure development. It is also clear that its borrowings would end up as the liability of the state. With Kerala's cumulative debt set to cross ₹3.27 lakh crore (37% of GSDP) this fiscal, it is high time the borrowing policy is subjected to scrutiny. Including borrowings by KIIFB and KSSPL in the budget will only serve the purpose of transparency and add to the integrity of these institutions. Financial accountability is an essential feature of responsible governance. Taking on facts and figures with jibes is bad politics.

This is the right time to look at alternatives that could bring vibrancy to the farm economy and ensure food security for the country's population

FARM LAWS ARE TO BE REPEALED, WHAT NOW?

MG DEVASAHAYAM

Writer, a former Army and IAS officer, and a member of the HPC-1990

SOUMYADIP SINHA

After one year of intense and intensive agitation by millions of farmers, which caused 671 deaths and untold suffering, Prime Minister Narendra Modi has announced the Union government's decision to repeal the three controversial farm laws that were passed in Parliament in September last year. This is what he said: "I apologise to India and with true and pure heart ... we were not able to convince farmers [over the farm laws]. I'm here to declare that we have decided to repeal the three farm laws. ... We will complete all the formalities during the Parliament session that begins this month."

The three laws are—The Farmers' Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Act, The Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement of Price Assurance and Farm Services Act, and The Essential Commodities (Amendment) Act. These laws permit the sale of agricultural produce outside the mandis regulated by the Agricultural Produce Market Committees (APMC) constituted by different state legislations, allow contract farming, and deregulate production, supply and distribution of food items like cereals, pulses, potatoes, onions and edible oilseeds. Besides causing considerable anguish to the farmers, these legislations are seen as a direct violation of the federal structure of India, agriculture being a state subject in the Constitution. The feisty farmers deserve the nation's gratitude for restoring constitutional values and principles through democratic and non-violent means.

Hopefully the laws would be done and dusted when Parliament meets for its Winter Session on November 29. So it is the right time to suggest alternatives that could bring vibrancy to the farm economy and ensure food security for India's teeming millions. This is particularly critical in the pandemic period that has brought about widespread hunger and malnutrition.

Dismantling APMCs and opening up agricultural sale and marketing outside these mandis as well as providing a framework for electronic trading exposes farmers to the volatility and vicissitudes of the market, which is invariably imperfect. Dismantling of the APMCs would mean the ending of assured procurement of food grains at minimum support prices (MSP). Contract farming provides a framework on trade agreements for the sale and purchase of farm produce. There is apprehension that the free hand given to private corporate houses could lead to farmer exploitation. Cereals, pulses, oilseeds, edible oils, onions and potatoes have been removed from the list of essential commodities. This could lead to exporters, processors and traders hoarding farm produce during the harvest season, when prices are generally lower, and releasing it later when prices increase, thereby undermining food security.

Though there are many issues, the most important one is the lack of a pricing mechanism that protects the producers of food grains (farmers) and consumers (all of us), including a legal guarantee for MSP. A formula for this is contained in the "Report of the High-Powered Committee on Agricultural Policies and Programmes-1990" (HPC) headed by former Union agriculture minister Bhanu Pratap Singh that had top farmer-leaders, parliamentarians, eminent economists and administrators as members.

At the outset the committee realised that farmers faced a triple-whammy: very high risk due to constant exposure to elements of nature, adverse terms of trade and non-remunerative prices. These needed to be ameliorated. The committee looked at farming and farmers from one large perspective—remunerative/stable income across the board while ensuring food security with the active involvement of key stakeholders.

The feisty farmers deserve the nation's gratitude ... While repealing the three farm acts, Parliament should enact a fresh law in the interests of the nation and the suffering farming community

The core issues identified were: need to rely more on the commitment of farmers, who are the producers, and the market mechanism that influences consumption; protecting the farmer and the consumer against the vagaries of production and the market forces in order to enhance agricultural productivity and ensure fair prices; reduction in the cost of food grain procurement, storage, transportation and distribution; an efficient delivery system under which those in genuine need of subsidies and support are properly targeted and given sufficient access to food grains; and effective intervention powers in the hands of the government in times of need to protect the interests of producers or consumers.

With these in view, the committee suggested a series of policy initiatives. The emphasis was on withdrawal of all controls, except that of quality. "Triple pricing" was advocated in order to regulate the market and protect the producer, consumer and the trader. There will be a 'parity price' to fully compensate the farmers for a rise in the cost of inputs and their other necessities of life, a 'support price' below which prices will not be allowed to fall, and 'intervention price' beyond which prices would not be allowed to rise.

As soon as the price of food grains in the open market rises above the intervention price (already fixed), all stocks or part of it would be acquired by the government agencies on payment of "parity" price. If the price falls below the support price, the farmers would have the right to sell their stocks to the government at the support price already fixed. This mechanism could be made to work effectively by setting up a decentralised chain of warehouses involving local panchayats/governments and establishing appropriate Food Security Regulatory Authorities vested with adequate powers to implement and monitor.

Under this policy mechanism, farmers will be assured of MSP and consumers a reasonable and relatively stable cost. Traders will know the limits within which they can operate. Small farmers will be saved from going in for distress sales, and the government will have the facility to quickly locate and acquire food grain stocks in times of need. In short, the committee's recommendations were meant to prevent food inflation while making the farmer stand on his feet and be his own master instead of depending on government charity or market volatility.

While repealing the three farm laws, Parliament should look to enact a fresh law on the above lines in the interest of the nation and the suffering farming community, which is the backbone of India's economy.

DROWNING IN CHENNAI: TN'S YEARLY WATER CRISIS

NANDITHA KRISHNA

Historian, environmentalist and writer based in Chennai

I received a very appropriate WhatsApp message during the recent rains in Chennai: January to October—water scarcity; November to December—water scares city.

How long do we have to put up with this annual horror of water entering homes, sometimes even mixed with sewage and petrol? People die every year. The city has to shut down; offices, schools, colleges and factories close; there is no public transport ... and we call ourselves a mega smart city! Who can forget the floods of 2015, when over 400 people lost their lives and boats became the mode of transportation? It is convenient to restrict the blame to climate change and extreme weather events for the flooding. But knowing that this is a frequent event, how is the government planning to cope? It is the poor who suffer, whose homes are destroyed. And animals have to starve with no source of food.

Chennai has 2,780 kilometres of roads. But the storm water drains are limited to 1,894 kilometres. Knowing that the city is prone to floods and cyclones, we need much more; it has been suggested that the city needs about 5,000 kilometres of storm water drains. Then comes the maintenance of these drains, which are choked with plastic. And when the water is pumped out of low-lying areas, it goes back to the same streets and into homes. There is no flood management plan. For instance, for the past two weeks, water has been pumped out of Seethamma Road in Alwarpet to TTK Road. It makes a U-turn and goes back into Seethamma Road. The residue even enters homes; our pathways are full of water mixed with petrol. Frightening!

Finally comes the poor management of reservoirs. When they almost begin to overflow, the sluice gates are conveniently opened for water to rush out and into the city. This year, when the reservoirs were opened, the water rushed out with fish, which were caught by children on the streets of T Nagar. Where could the water go? If harvested properly, we would never have a water problem in Chennai city.

The two freshwater rivers—Cooum and Adyar—are stagnant with sewage and garbage. If they could be cleaned up and only treated wastewater allowed to flow into them, that would be one more source for rainwater drainage. But there is too much corruption involved for the government to do the right thing. T Nagar, Lake Area, Chrompet, parts of Mylapore, Velachery, Pallikaranai, etc., have come up on eris or water bodies. All the water bodies of Chennai have been filled with garbage and sold to contractors. This has been a very lucrative business for politicians and bureaucrats of every hue. So where can the rainwater go?

Meanwhile, the city faces water shortages every summer. The defining image of Chennai, according to visitors to the city, is the row of colourful plastic pots lined up before a hand pump. We are unable to store the excess rainwater and use it in the hot dry summer. Chennai is a city dependent on groundwater but rainwater harvesting is a myth. The tall constructions with multiple residents are sucking out water faster than a 10 HP motor pump. The temple tanks that maintained groundwater levels have slowly been filled up. Marundeeswarar Temple in Thiruvanmiyur, which once had five tanks, has only one left today. The rest have given way to constructions and even a bus stand.

Since 2015, the year of the terrible floods, the city administration has tried to build storm water drains in flood-prone areas. But the Adyar and Cooum are yet to be unclogged. ... The mass rapid transit system has restricted the flow of rain water into Buckingham Canal, which was originally designed as a protective barrier against floods

Since 2015, the year of the terrible floods, the city administration has tried to build storm water drains in flood-prone areas. But the Adyar and Cooum are yet to be unclogged. The unplanned growth of the city has led to the filling up of lakes and tanks and shrunk wetlands. A large wetland, Pallikaranai, has been converted into residential colonies, institutions and even a large garbage dump. The mass rapid transit system has restricted the flow of rain water into Buckingham Canal, which was originally designed as a protective barrier against floods. Over 300 lakes, tanks and canals have disappeared in the past decades and, according to the administration, over 1.5 lakh illegal constructions choke the cityscape. In 1893, there were 60 large water bodies in Chennai. Now only four remain: Red Hills, Cholavaram, Poondi and Chembarambakkam, with a combined capacity of about 11,000 mcft, of which 5 mcft is lost daily due to evaporation. Chennai is supplied 985 mld of water per day against the required amount of 1,200 mld. So water shortage is a perennial problem.

The water quality is also not even. Some areas have high total dissolved solids (TDS), while saltwater intrusion is a problem along the coast, which once had fresh water. One cannot imagine drinking water out of a tap. It is the source of every possible infection.

This is not the story of Chennai alone. Most Indian cities have permitted precious natural assets such as rivers, streams and lakes, which were the primary reason for their adoption and development as urban centres, to be filled up for construction purposes. Every year cities like Mumbai are flooded. Nowadays even inland cities like Hyderabad are suffering the same fate. This is due to poor planning. Contractors bribe politicians and officials and put up buildings on water bodies with no way for water drainage. Nobody is willing to bell the cat.

Chennai will have to restore at least some of its lost water spaces—the eris or lakes—and its two rivers, which have been reduced to large drains, in order to better withstand the vagaries of extreme weather events and preserve some water for the coming summer months. The people of this city are fed up with regular annual floods and droughts, which also lead to power cuts, high vegetable prices, shortages of essential commodities and a total breakdown of normal life. Chennai residents have to wade through water mixed with sewage and lose precious lives and limbs. Who will save us from our annual water woes?

Apologies won't suffice

The NDA government's U-turn to repeal the farm laws after a standoff for more than a year is a smart move for political mileage in view of the upcoming Punjab and UP polls. This wisdom should have prevailed much earlier to avoid the embarrassment, distress and suffering caused to the protesting farmers. No verbal apologies can compensate for the loss of hundreds of precious lives.

Farm law repeal welcome

The PM repealing the three controversial farm laws on the auspicious occasion of Guru Nanak Jayanthi and Kartik Purnima is a welcome move. It's a victory for democracy and farmers, especially the Punjabis. It has happened due to the state polls and the 2024 general election. It is also a lesson for both the Houses of Parliament that laws should not be passed in a hurry.

To avert electoral disaster

It is better late than never. In his speech, the prime minister apologised to the nation, admitting his government's failure to convince the farmers on the benefits of the laws. But he also betrayed his lack of empathy by not apologising for the deaths of around 700 farmers. With the upcoming Assembly polls and the farmers getting more restive, the top BJP leadership decided to undo the damage to avert a possible electoral disaster in UP.

Nixing of verdict right move

This is with reference to Apex court explains POSCO, nixes absurd skin-to-skin touch ruling (Nov 19). I am greatly relieved to hear the new verdict of the Supreme Court. The flames of anger that had arisen in the hearts of many due to the Bombay High Court's order have been doused. It is the sexual intent that matters and not just the way one touches. I still wonder how the High Court made such a verdict when things are crystal clear.

A revolutionary step

This is with reference to How peoples' Padma emerged over time (Nov 19). The revolutionary step taken by the Modi government in taking the Padma awards to the people will go a long way in representing unsung achievers from different regions of the country. So far, the country's elite got wide popularity through the awards whereas many ordinary do-gooders and change makers were left without due recognition.

Laws were aimed at getting farmers the right price: PM

THREE agricultural laws were introduced as part of this great campaign to improve the condition of the farmers. The aim was that the farmers of the country, especially the small farmers, should be empowered and get the right price for their produce and more options to sell their produce.

For years, this demand was made by the farmers, agricultural experts, agricultural economists and farmers' organisations. In the past also, many governments had brainstormed on this issue. This time also, there was debate in Parliament following which these laws were introduced. A large number of farmers and several farmers' organisations welcomed and supported it. I want to thank all of them.

Our government brought in the laws with a good intention, full sincerity and complete dedication for the welfare of farmers, especially small farmers, in the interest of agriculture and the country and for a bright future of the poor in villages. But we have not been able to explain to some farmers that such a sacred thing is absolutely pure and for the benefit of the farmers.

Even though only a section of farmers was protesting, it was still important for us. Agricultural economists, scientists, progressive farmers also tried hard to make them understand the importance of agricultural laws. We kept on explaining with utmost humility and with an open mind.

Individual and group interactions also continued through various mediums. We did not leave any stone unturned to understand the arguments of the farmers. The government also agreed to change the provisions of the laws on which they had objections. We proposed suspending these laws for two years. In the meantime, this matter went to the Hon'ble Supreme Court. All these things are in front of the country, so I will not go into further details.

This is not the time to blame anyone. I want to tell you, the entire country, we have decided to repeal all three agricultural laws. We will complete the constitutional process to repeal these laws in the Parliament session later this month.

I urge all my agitating farmer companions that today is the holy day of Guru Purab and you should return to your homes, fields and to your families. Let's make a fresh start. Let's move forward with a fresh beginning. Today, the government has taken another important decision related to the agriculture sector.

DAMAGE CONTROL BID IN POLL-BOUND STATES

With elections in Punjab, UP & Uttarakhand next year, analysts & Opposition say farm legislations repealed to regain lost vote bank

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

FOR BJP, PM Narendra Modi's big heart could have prompted the repeal of three contentious farm laws. For political analysts and Opposition leaders, it is simply a matter of electoral arithmetic. This holds especially true in poll-bound Uttar Pradesh and its spillover effect in Punjab elections.

In western UP, 16 districts comprise 136 Assembly seats out of the total of 403. Jat votes in these districts, which consolidated after the 2013 riots in BJP's favour, have disintegrated. That means the Jats, an aggressive section of the farmer stir, are going back again with the Muslims against BJP — a grim warning for the party.

Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav was blunt in his reaction. "The repeal symbolises the defeat of an individual's ego, which has been prompted by the fear of losing 2022 polls. They'll bring the same laws after elections."

Congress's Priyanka Gandhi said, "Why is the PM apologising now when 600-700 farmers have lost their lives? It is because (BJP's) internal surveys have warned them of defeat in polls," she said in Lucknow

Some analysts term it as the PM's masterstroke to deny the Opposition any chance to gain an edge in the polls. They say the formidable Jat-Muslim votes would now stand divided to BJP's advantage.

In Punjab, political analyst Prof Ashutosh of Punjab University says BJP can now hope to have some kind of presence in the polls. "They would co-opt farmer leaders to preempt a backlash in the polls."

Another political observer, Prof Kuldeep Singh says the decision would enable the Centre to have wider consultations with various farmer unions, something the government should have done earlier. "In the process, BJP would like to take credit for the decision and make a fresh beginning in Punjab after losing support.

The saffron party faces isolation in Punjab after it parted ways with the Akalis following enactment of the laws. Many say the poll dynamics would change with former CM Amarinder Singh going ahead with seat adjustment with the BJP.

In Uttarakhand, stakes are high for BJP. Jay Singh Rawat, a political commentator, said, "The repeal will have its effects in US Nagar where a sizable population of farmers supported the protests." The Bajpur seat in the US Nagar district is considered a stronghold of former state minister Yashpal Arya. He was a cabinet minister for BJP and joined Congress last month.

Jubilant Opposition credits farmers for show of perseverance

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

THE Opposition parties on Thursday termed the decision to repeal the farm laws as a victory of farmers and did not forget to mention that the decision was taken under the fear of BJP losing in upcoming Assembly elections.

Congress chief Sonia Gandhi said the conspiracy hatched by those in power against the farmers has lost and so has the arrogance of dictatorial rulers. "In a democracy, any decision should be taken after talks with every stakeholder and deliberations with the Opposition. I hope the Modi government at least learned something for the future," she said.

Other Opposition parties also slammed the government for delay in repealing the farm laws after hundreds of farmers lost their lives. West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee congratulated the farmers and offered condolences to those who lost their loved ones. "Congratulations to every single farmer who fought relentlessly. They were not fazed by the cruelty with which BJP treated them. This is YOUR VICTORY!" she tweeted.

Asking the PM to apologise to the farmers for subjecting them to hardships, CPI(M) general secretary Sitaram Yechury said: "We must not forget the sacrifice of more than 750 farmers who lost their lives. The quest for justice for those targeted by the government and its agencies through false cases will continue." Mehbooba Mufti, president of JKPDP, also hoped that the government will do some course correction by reversing the changes made in J&K from August 2019.

"Anyone who believes the government repealed the Farm Laws out of the goodness of its heart is completely mistaken. This government only responds to cold hard numbers - bypoll setback = fuel price reduction. Poor internal polls numbers for Western UP & Punjab = Farm laws repealed," tweeted National Conference's Omar Abdullah

Bihar Opposition leader Tejashwi Yadav said the farmers have won showing power in unity. Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal said the result of the farmers' agitation is as a lesson that if the struggle is sincere, success will follow.

SC panelist to make report public

Anil Ghanwat, member of the Supreme Court-appointed panel which has submitted its report on the contentious farm laws, said the purpose of the report is over and he will release the report in public domain, if the Supreme Court does not. Ghanwat described as 'regressive' the government's decision to repeal the laws. He added that the panel's report was in favour of farmers. "If the Supreme Court doesn't make the report public, I will," Ghanwat said. "This should not go to the dustbin."

Sad we could not convince farmers, says agri minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

WELCOMING the Prime Minister's decision to repeal the farm laws, Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar on Friday expressed regret that the government was unsuccessful in convincing some farmers groups about the benefits of these laws.

Tomar said the government wanted to remove hurdles faced by the farming community by bringing in the three new farm laws. These laws would have benefited farmers, Tomar said. He added that the PM's intention was to bring a "revolutionary change" in the lives of farmers. "I am sad that we were not successful in convincing some farmers about the benefit of these laws."

Tomar said the PM tried to bring changes in the farm sector through these laws. But the situation became such that some farmers found problems in these laws. "We tried to convince them but were not successful," said Tomar.

The minister spoke of the government's commitment to agriculture and farmer welfare in the last seven years and highlighted various schemes launched since 2014. The government has decided to fix the minimum support price (MSP) at least 1.5 times the cost of production and procurement has doubled, he said.

To support small farmers, the government has launched the PM-KISAN scheme under which ₹1.62 lakh crore has been disbursed to farmers, he said. He added that crop loan has been doubled in the last seven years of BJP rule.

IN NATIONAL INTEREST AND NOT FOR POLLS: BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE BJP on Friday tried to de-link the decision to repeal the farm laws with Assembly polls, arguing that PM Narendra Modi made the announcement in national interest.

What was stated by BJP leaders informally was put forth bluntly by Ashwani Mahajan, co-convenor of Swadeshi Jagran Manch (SJM), an RSS affiliate. He said that separatist elements had joined the farm protests. "It's unfortunate that in the name of farm protests, a number of separatist elements had entered the agitation to endanger the security and unity of the country. The decision to repeal the farm laws has defeated the designs of the nefarious designs of the separatists," he said.

The BJP national general secretary (Organisation) BL Santhosh through a tweet emphasised that this decision is taken in national interest to drive home the point that there were intelligence inputs saying separatists are seeking to take advantage of the farm agitation.

The BJP leaders also toiled to argue that the decision to repeal the farm laws wasn't prompted by the poll challenges early next year. They argued that BJP won the Assam elections despite the farm protests. They also claimed that BJP in alliance won in Puducherry, besides improving the party's tally in West Bengal from three to 77 Assembly seats. Also, BJP won a number of local body polls, including Zila Panchayat elections in Gujarat despite the farm protests.

Gurupurab turns special this year for agitating farmers at Singhu border

ANKITA UPADHYAY @New Delhi

GURUPURAB was special this time for the agitating farmers at Singhu. At first, they could not believe that the contentious agriculture laws were repealed. It took some time for the feeling to sink in among the men, women and children present at the protest site.

Rooted at the national capital's margin for more than a year, these sons of soil and their families have braved vagaries of weather, police action and the deadly wave of Covid pandemic. Now, all the suffering felt vindicated.

Smiling faces greeted each other on the success of the protest which started on November 25 last year when thousands of farmers — mostly from Punjab, Haryana and Uttar Pradesh — marched towards Delhi and pitched their tents on the borders.

By 10am, the stage was set for celebration. While union leaders discussed the Centre's U-turn and their course of action, the youngsters were in a celebratory mood. Kisan Anthem, a song sung by Punjabi singer Mankirt Aulakh, reverberated across the protest site. Chants of 'Kisan Ekta Zindabad' were resounding. An 80-year-old farmer from Haryana broke into a song with the lines of "Modi sarkar ne duniya dukhi banayi."

This was followed with laddoos and tea. Many farmers invited mediapersons and expressed their opinion on the development. "We are happy with the announcement. This is the first time the PM has said something. This Gurupurab has brought happiness, hard work has paid off," said Nirmal Singh of Kisan Majdoor Sangharsh Samiti.

Petitions in top court turn infructuous

With the Centre set to repeal the three farm laws, a number of petitions in Supreme Court will become infructuous. In all these months, the court did take up issues pertaining to farmers, but not the challenge to the laws. In one hearings, the court had observed that farmers have right to protest but can't block roads indefinitely. Another petition by farmers sought permission to protest in the capital but the court refused to give permission.

Bereaved families wish legislations were repealed before loss of lives

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

AFTER a year-long struggle, farmers have had their way. But it has come at a heavy price as 669 lives have been lost till date. Heat waves, hailstorms, harsh winters, accidents, fall from tractor trolleys, run over by trucks, cardiac arrests, Covid-19 and dengue — those protesting in the Delhi borders had a tough time.

Families of the deceased farmers feel good now, but can't help saying that had the contentious laws been repealed earlier, many lives could have been saved. The first casualty was reported on November 24 in Mehal Kalan in Barnala. BKU (Dakunda) activist Kahan Singh was hit by a car on the roadside where trollies were parked for the Delhi march. He died on the spot. "Kahan was the first martyr," recalls Manjit Dhaner of BKU (Dakunda).

Amritsar-based farmer Bhupinder Singh, who lost his brother Gurbhej, said, "This should have been done earlier. Innocent farmers were killed during the agitations." Ninder Kaur, 55, of Ferozepur lost her son Lovejeet Singh (23) at Singhu border. "He used to say that the farmers will win. His soul must be happy after this news," she said. Gurmit Kaur, 58, lost her husband Jarnail Singh, who suffered a cardiac arrest at Singhu border. "His sacrifice has finally paid off. I happy that the farmers have finally won," said Kaur.

Some of the families are expecting compensation. Jagdish Singh of Maluwal in Amritsar, who lost his brother Davinder, said, "The Punjab governent must fulfil its promise of giving a job to one member of a family which has lost a near one."

Samyukt Kisan Morcha leader Darshan Pal said the government had to bend. "We feel sad it took so many lives, before the laws were taken back."

Dad of slain J&K youth seeks return of body

22-yr-old Aamir was among four killed in Hyderpora encounter; shutdown in Kashmir Valley to protest the killings

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

AFTER J&K authorities exhumed bodies of two Srinagar residents killed in the Hyderpora encounter and handed the bodies over to families for burial, the father of another slain civilian has demanded return of the mortal remains of his 22-year-old son Aamir Magray.

Meanwhile, Kashmir observed a shutdown on Friday adhering to the call by the Hurriyat Conference against "civilian killings".

"I want justice. My son Aamir was not a militant. I want return of mortal remains of Aamir so that we can give a proper burial to his body," Aamir's father Lateef Magray, a resident of Ramban district, told this newspaper.

ZAHOOR PUNJABI

I had worked with the army for five years against militants. And how can the son of the person, who all through his life had fought against militants, be a militant

Lateef Magray, father of Aamir Magray

According to Lateef, he met the DC and the SP of Ramban and they told him they would raise the issue with the authorities concerned.

"I urge Lt Governor Manoj Sinha to return the mortal remains of my son," said Lateef, who in 2005 had killed a militant and was given bravery medal by then J&K Governor N N Vohra.

"I had worked with the army for five years against militants. And how can the son of the person, who all through his life had fought militants, be a militant. They have labelled us militants too," said Lateef, adding, "Aamir was working as an office boy in the office of Dr Mudasir Gul (one of the four killed in the encounter)".

CPI (M) leader and Gupkar spokesman Mohammad Yousuf Tarigami also urged the administration to return the body of Aamir to the family as it has been "proven beyond any doubt that he was a civilian".

"Aamir Magrey is yet to be given a decent burial by his mourning family. The fact that these families are begging for mortal remains instead of asking for justice reflects their lack of faith in the system. His body must be returned immediately," tweeted PDP chief and former CM Mehbooba Mufti.

Other political parties and the Hurriyat have also demanded return of mortal remains of Aamir to his family.

Normal life in Kashmir was affected by the shutdown called by Hurriyat Conference. All shops and business establishments in Srinagar and other parts of the Valley remained closed while a few vehicles plied on the roads.

A sizable chunk of the population may need booster shots | FILE

Opinion on booster shots likely next week

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

AN expert panel which will decide on recommending Covid-19 booster doses for the most vulnerable people in India could come up with its suggestions as early as next week, sources have told this newspaper.

Officials in the Union health ministry said the National Technical Advisory Group on Immunisation is scheduled to meet early next week where a possible policy to offer additional Covid-19 shots to the immune-compromised and those with serious comorbidities will be discussed.

Raj Covid death after 3 months

Triggering worry among healthcare workers in Rajashan, the state reported first Covid-related death in over three months. The state has been witnessing a surge in cases recently

"There is an emerging understanding that quite a sizable chunk of the population may need additional shots even after completing the two-dose schedule," said an official.

"However, only the expert panel can specify who needs the booster shots and how long after having received the second dose," he added.

The development comes amid fresh researches that even though some of the Covid vaccines may be capable of triggering immune response by up to one year or more, antibodies against SARS CoV2 may be dwindling swiftly by six months after the second dose.

Studies have also shown that the existing Covid vaccines, though potent, are far from being perfect and while they reduce the risks of hospitalisation and severe disease, they do not eliminate them.

Globally, 38 countries, including the US, Germany, Austria, Canada and France, are administering booster doses. The booster doses delivered in the US so far are the highest.

However, the decision to deliver booster shots has been criticised by the World Health Organization and last week, its Director General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus called it a "scandal" as poorer countries continue to wait for the first jab.

"It makes no sense to give boosters to healthy adults or to vaccinate children, when health workers, older people and other high-risk groups around the world are still waiting for their first dose. The exception, as we have said, is immunocompromised individuals," he had said in a statement.

In India, there have been reporters of several private hospitals delivering boosters to healthcare workers — who were among the first to receive Covid shots — without registering on CoWIN.

CABINET REJIG

3 ministers offer to quit as Raj heads for reshuffle

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

THE countdown for the new cabinet of Ashok Gehlot government in Rajasthan has started. Three members of the cabinet — Medical and Health Minister Dr Raghu Sharma, Revenue Minister Harish Chaudhary and Education Minister Govind Singh Dotasara — have sent letters to Congress national president Sonia Gandhi and offered to resign. The trio holds important positions in the party and has expressed desire to work for the organisation.

While Sharma is the in-charge of party's Gujarat affairs, Chaudhary takes care of Punjab. Dotasara is the state Congress president. The three ministers have offered to resign following the "one-person-one-post formula" of the party.

Meanwhile, Ajay Maken, the general secretary in-charge of Rajasthan, reached Jaipur Friday. He met CM Gehlot and Dotasara at the airport and the three leaders went to the CM's residence.

Maken has confirmed that three ministers of the Gehlot government have offered to resign in letters to party chief Sonia Gandhi.

After the resignation of three ministers, the cabinet will have 12 vacant posts. Sources indicated that all posts are unlikely to be filled up together and there will be appointments only on 9 -10 posts. According to sources, four to five of new names will be decided from those suggested by Sachin Pilot.

Caste census on govt's agenda next?

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

WILL the Narendra Modi government bite the bullet to go ahead with a nationwide caste census? Yes, feel insiders from the NDA constituents. Like the decision to repeal the farm laws, the ruling dispensation is said to be mulling over a rethink on the contentious issue of caste census ahead of the polls in states including Uttar Pradesh and Punjab.

"A deep consideration to review the BJP stand on the nationwide caste census is going on. If everything goes well after considering all pros and cons, the BJP-led government may take another dramatic decision on it soon," a party insider says, adding that the inputs received on the BJP's stand have not been favourable.

In September, the central government had ruled out the possibility of a caste-based census through the Census-2021 exercise. After sustained attack by opposition parties and unease among its alliance parties, the BJP had shifted the onus of conducting such exercise on state government.

Given that Friday's announcement to set aside the three agriculture laws is the second major volte face of the government after it put land acquisition on hold in 2015, the sources indicate that there may be an announcement of a caste census with the caveat of being again voted to power after 2024 general elections.

Those in the know from the NDA admit that the latest decision was taken in the wake of the Lakhimpur-Kheri episode. The decision to repeal the farm laws in principle was taken soon after former Punjab CM Amarinder Singh met Union Home Minister Amit Shah, they say.

"It may have been Amarinder's condition for a pre-poll alliance or because of mounting pressure from the Opposition and farmers. Or, it may be because of the unfavourable inputs the party had received in its internal survey. But it is a strategic move ahead of the polls in five states," said a senior NDA leader.

Incidentally, the PM's announcement to repeal the farm laws caught its allies in Bihar by surprise. "It was his (Modi) decision to bring the laws and again it is his decision to repeal. What can we comment on it?" said Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar.

PM launches water projects in UP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

HOURS after announcing the repeal of the three contentious farm laws, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday toured the Bundelkhand region of Uttar Pradesh.

He started from Mahoba district, launching the Arjuna Sahayak project and three other water projects worth ₹3,240 crore for the parched region. The PM completed his visit to the region by formally handing over the indigenous Light Combat Helicopters to the Indian Air Force in Jhansi. Modi dubbed Jhansi as the "Kashi of Kranti and Krantikaris", recalling the bravery of Queen of Jhansi Rani Laxmi Bai and also the hockey legend Major Dhyan Chand.

Addressing the event, CM Yogi Adityanath said 2.5 lakh acres of land in Bundelkhand will get water through the projects launched on Friday. The CM said that the region was all set for further development with the Defence Corridor being set up in the state.

Sidhu wins as Punjab govt names new AG

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

PUNJAB Congress president Navjot Singh Sidhu had his way again as the state government on Friday appointed senior advocate DS Patwalia as the Advocate General of Punjab.

Sources said Chief Miniser Charanjit Singh Channi had cleared the file for appointment of the new AG on Wednesday before sending it to the governor for approval which was approved and an official notification was issued by the state government on Friday. It is believed that Patwalia's name was pushed by Sidhu.

Patwalia practices primarily on the Constitutional law.

Advocate General APS Deol had resigned from his position earlier this month after serving for a little more than a month due to row over his appointment. The move came amid Sidhu's strong opposition to the appointment of Deol.

Sec-144 in Manipur dist after blast

Guwahati: In the Imphal West district of election-bound Manipur, prohibitory orders under Section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code have been clamped for two months following a low-intensity blast on Thursday.The authorities have prohibited assembly of five or more persons and the carrying of sticks, stones, firearms without valid licence or objects of any description, which can be used as offensive weapons. District Magistrate T Kirankumar said the measures were taken as there was likelihood of serious breach of peace, disturbance to public tranquility and grave danger to human lives and properties on account of unlawful activities of some anti-social elements. Thursday's blast occurred in front of a shop at Kairang, which is a Muslim-majority area. Nobody was injured in the explosion. The blast comes days after the Assam Rifles recovered over 200 locally-made IEDs from the Indo-Myanmar border town of Moreh.

Door-to-door survey to trace unvaccinated people

The Uttarakhand government has launched 'Har Ghar Dastak' drive under which ASHA workers and social groups enrolled with the state health department will go door-to-door to check on those who have not yet been vaccinated. The ASHA workers will visit houses with specific questions including reason for not getting vaccinated. District-level officers will forward these reports to the state government authorities for further action. The teams will pay special attention to pregnant women. The drive has been launched to step up Covid-19 vaccination drive as the state government aims to completely vaccinate eligible population by December 15. A total of 80.50 lakh adult population is to be vaccinated in the state, requiring 1.61 crore doses to be administered.

Forest dept to study human-wildlife conflict

The Uttarakhand forest department has launched a project to study human-wildlife conflict in the Himalayan state. As many as 44 people have already died due to the conflict till September this year while 150 have been injured. Apart from this, 61 leopards, 10 elephants and 5 tigers too have died till July this year in the state. The project also aims to study behavioural changes in wild animals. Experts say the Himalayan black bear, which used to remain asleep for four months, has been reported to be awake for 12 months in a year. Attacks from bear have registered a rise in recent years.

4% of voters eligible for postal ballot

With the Election Commission of India allowing voting through postal ballot for voters aged 80 years and above along with Divyang and service voters, percentage of voters eligible for postal ballot has risen to almost 4 per cent (3,12,991). Analysts say these 4 per cent voters can be a decisive factor if the state witnesses a close electoral fight. Assembly elections are due in March 2022. At present, Uttarakhand has 93,978 service voters and 1,65,113 voters aged 80 years and above. The state also has 53,900 physically challenged voters. The hill state has 11,647 polling booths. This could changed when the final electoral roll would be published on January 5, 2022.

Austria to impose strict lockdown as Covid cases rise

Become first major Western country to make vaccination mandatory as new infections reach all-time high; jab refusal could lead to fine or jail

VIENNA

AUSTRIA will go into a national lockdown, its fourth since the start of the pandemic, to contain a fourth wave of infections, Chancellor Alexander Schallenberg announced on Friday, as fresh Covid-19 cases hit a record high amid a pandemic surge across Europe.

The lockdown will start on Monday and initially will last for 10 days, Schallenberg said.

And starting February 1, the country will also make vaccinations mandatory. Those refusing vaccination will likely need to pay a fine or spend time in jail if they could not pay the fine, the Guardian reported.

Most stores will close, and cultural events will be canceled next week. People will be able to leave their homes only for certain specific reasons, including buying groceries, going to the doctor or exercising.

Wolfgang Mueckstein, the country's health minister, said that kindergartens and schools would remain open for those who needed to go there but all parents were asked to keep their children at home if possible. "We do not want a fifth wave," Schallenberg said, according to ORF television. "Nor do we want a sixth or seventh wave."

Police officers check the vaccination status of a visitor to a Christmas market in Vienna on Friday | AP

The full lockdown is the latest effort to control rapidly rising case numbers.

On Friday, the country reported 15,809 new infections, an all-time high.

Earlier this month, Austria introduced rules that barred unvaccinated people from restaurants, hotels and large events. Government officials had long promised that vaccinated people would no longer face lockdown restrictions: Over the summer, then-Chancellor Sebastian Kurz declared the pandemic "over" for those who had received the vaccine.

But as virus cases continued to skyrocket, the government said it had no choice but to extend it to everyone.

Mueckstein, the health minister, said many factors contributed to the current situation, including Austria's lower-than-expected vaccination rate and the seasonal impact of the virus. After 10 days, the lockdown's effects will be assessed. If virus cases have not gone down sufficiently, it can be extended to 20 days.

Outside Europe, Indonesia, Tajikistan and Turkmenistan have made vaccination mandatory while French territory of New Caledonia has also decided to impose vaccination from the end of December.

Biden mulls Beijing Olympics boycott

WASHINGTON

US President Joe Biden said on Thursday he was considering a diplomatic boycott of the Winter Olympics to be held in Beijing, in what would be an attempt to show toughness over China's rights abuses without impacting US athletes.

That is "something we are considering," Biden told reporters while meeting with Canada's prime minister, Justin Trudeau, at the White House. The Beijing Olympics take place next February.

Biden's comments followed a long-awaited video summit with Chinese counterpart Xi Jinping late on Monday, during which the two leaders said they wanted to ensure stability and prevent accidental conflicts.

The US president is under pressure at home to speak out on China's human rights abuses, especially in the Xinjiang region where the US government says repression of the Uyghur ethnic group qualifies as genocide. China's foreign ministry on Friday brushed off the rights accusations as "inconsistent with the truth and completely groundless," calling Washington's claims a "joke in the eyes of Chinese people."

"Politicising sports is against the Olympic spirit, and harms the interests of athletes from all countries," foreign ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian said at a regular press briefing Friday. On Tuesday, The Washington Post reported that the Biden administration would soon announce a diplomatic boycott, meaning that while athletes would still compete, government representatives would not be in the stands.

White House officials said that the issue was not raised during the Biden-Xi virtual summit. US-China relations hit a low point under Biden's predecessor Donald Trump, with a massive trade war and incendiary debate over origins of coronavirus. Biden has sought to re-engage with Beijing, while at the same time focusing on strengthening traditional US alliances to counter China's ever-growing economic clout and military presence. AP

China scolds Lithuania after it lets Taiwan set up office

VILNIUS

CHINA on Friday threatened to retaliate against Lithuania after the Baltic nation allowed Taiwan to open a representative office in its capital. Foreign Ministry spokesperson Zhao Lijian said Lithuania would "reap what it sows," but gave no details. Zhao described Lithuania's move as an "egregious act" that "grossly interferes" in China's internal affairs.

The office, which opened on Thursday in Vilnius, bears the name Taiwan rather than "Chinese Taipei," which is used by the International Olympic Committee and many foreign nations to avoid offending China, which claims the self-governing island democracy as its own territory.

Taiwan has just 15 formal diplomatic allies, but maintains informal ties with all major nations through trade offices that act as de facto embassies, including in the US and Japan.

Beijing has already recalled its ambassador from Vilnius and expelled the Lithuanian ambassador. AFP

US TEEN WHO KILLED ANTI-RACISM PROTESTERS ACQUITTED

WASHINGTON

KYLE Rittenhouse, the American teenager who shot and killed two men and wounded another during anti-police protests last year, was acquitted of all charges on Friday after pleading self-defence in the deadly Kenosha shootings that became a flashpoint in the nation's debate over guns, vigilantism and racial injustice.

Rittenhouse, 18, cried and hugged one of his attorneys upon hearing the verdict. He had been charged with homicide, attempted homicide and reckless endangering after killing two men and wounding a third with an AR-style semi-automatic rifle during a tumultuous night of protests over police violence against Black people in the summer of 2020. The former police youth cadet is white, as were those he shot.

The jury, which appeared to be overwhelmingly white, deliberated for close to 3 1/2 days.Rittenhouse could have gotten life in prison if found guilty on the most serious charge, first-degree intentional homicide. As the verdict drew near, Governor Tony Evers pleaded for calm and said 500 National Guard members would be ready for duty in Kenosha if needed.

Rittenhouse was 17 when he went from his home in Antioch, Illinois, to Kenosha after businesses in the city were ransacked and burned over the shooting of a Black man. Carrying a weapon that authorities said was illegally purchased for the underage Rittenhouse, he joined other armed citizens in what he said was an effort to protect property and provide medical aid. AP

Japan's $490 bn stimulus to supercharge economy

TOKYO

JAPANESE Prime Minister Fumio Kishida announced a record $490 billion stimulus for the world's third-largest economy Friday as he looks to shore up the country's patchy pandemic recovery.

The 56 trillion yen injection, the third since the Covid crisis struck last year, "is enough to deliver a sense of safety and hope to the Japanese people", Kishida said.

The vast spending plans are expected to be approved by the cabinet later in the day and reportedly include cash and coupon handouts to families with children under 18 who meet an income cap, as well as pay rises for nurses and careworkers.

It comes after Japan's economy shrank far more than expected in the second quarter as leaders struggled to overcome virus surges by imposing containment measures in Tokyo and other cities.

Former prime ministers Yoshihide Suga and Shinzo Abe poured 40 trillion yen and 38 trillion yen respectively into the economy in 2020, although some analysts have raised doubts over how effective that stimulus has been.

"We have been able to build economic measures that will lead to a new society after the pandemic," Kishida said at policy talks between the cabinet and ruling coalition.

He said the 56 trillion in spending — roughly 10 per cent of Japan's total GDP —was expected to rise as high as 79 trillion yen including other elements such as loans from private funds.

Fumio Kishida

Kishida triumphed in a general election last month, having pledged to deliver a huge spending programme after Suga stepped down, partly over his government's virus response.

Businesses, especially restaurants and bars, have endured months of on-off restrictions on opening hours and alcohol sales since the pandemic began. Japan's borders also remain shut to tourists.

Government data showed this week that Japan's economy shrank 0.8 percent in the three months to September — far worse than market expectations — as a record surge in virus cases hit spending and supply-chain issues hampered business.

However, daily cases have nosedived in recent months, and more than three-quarters of the population are now fully vaccinated, with most restrictions now lifted nationwide. AP

'Repeal of laws setback for farm reforms'

Govt has failed to make the otherwise 'progressive' farm laws politically acceptable, say economists & biz leaders

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE prime minister's decision to repeal the farm laws is a setback for the much-needed reforms in the agriculture sector. The general refrain among economists and business leaders is that the government failed to make the otherwise 'progressive' farm laws politically acceptable.

Ajay Shah, an economist and a former professor at National Institute of Public Finance and Policy (NIPFP), says that Indian agriculture is in a deep mess, a fundamental reform is required, and the farm bills were in the right direction. However, "what is needed is careful negotiation, sharing power between multiple voices in the country, and finding political economic solutions", he says.

Likening the fear about the farm laws to the skepticism about 1991 reforms, Debopam Chaudhuri, former chief economist of Piramal Enterprises, says, a lot would depend on how these are rolled out. "Theoretically on paper these appear to be aimed at boosting overall earnings of the farm sector. But income equity is a big question especially in a sector dominated by low literacy levels and prone to exploitation," he says.

> What is needed is careful negotiation, sharing power between multiple voices in the country, and finding political economic solutions
>
> Ajay Shah, economist

On whether there could be an immediate negative impact on the economy, Pronab Sen, an economist and former chief statistician of India, says the laws were barely implemented and hence there were hardly any changes on ground. He says that the farm laws would not have resulted in corporate takeover of the agriculture sector, but it would have resulted in corporatisation of the agricultural trade, and there was genuine concern among farmers.

An economist with a foreign financial services firm said on the condition of anonymity that while reform of the farm sector is required, more homework should have been done and (laws should have been) discussed before. "Hopefully someday economics should prevail over politics," he says.

Atul Chaturvedi, president of Solvent Extractors' Association of India, says: "We only hope agriculture reforms in a more politically acceptable manner should continue to be implemented."

JAPAN UNLEASHES RECORD STIMULUS PACKAGE

Japan unveiled a record $490 billion spending package on Friday to cushion the economic blow from the Covid-19 pandemic, bucking a global trend towards withdrawing crisis-mode stimulus measures and adding strains to its already tattered finances. Spending has ballooned due to an array of payouts including those criticised for being unrelated to the pandemic, such as cash handouts to households with youth aged 18 or below, and will likely lead to additional bond issuance this year. The massive spending would underscore the resolve of Prime Minister Fumio Kishida – once considered a fiscal conservative – to focus on reflating the economy and redistributing wealth to households. The package, finalised at a cabinet meeting on Friday, included 55.7 trn yen ($490 bn) in spending for items ranging from cash payouts to households, subsidies to Covid-hit firms and reserves set aside for emergency spending. The size of spending was much bigger than the 30-40 trn yen estimated by markets, and will be mostly funded by an extra budget of around 32 trn yen to be compiled this year. The remainder will likely be funded by next year's budget. The package, which includes funds that do not lead to immediate spending, will likely reach 78.9 trillion yen.

MALAYSIA: S'PORE RETURNED $16.3 MN IN 1MDB FUNDS

Singapore has recently returned to Malaysia about $16.3 million linked to a multibillion-dollar scandal at state fund 1MDB, Malaysia's anti-graft agency said on Friday. The authorities in the United States say that about $4.5 billion was siphoned from the state fund between 2009 and 2014, in a globe-spanning theft that has implicated high-ranking officials and financial institutions in multiple countries. The Malaysian government has said billions more remain unaccounted for. Malaysia has recovered about RM20.5 billion (S$6.7 bn) in 1MDB assets so far, the Malaysian Anti Corruption Commission said. Efforts to recover more are ongoing in places including Switzerland, Kuwait, Mauritius, Cyprus and Hong Kong, it added.

CHINA

YUAN WEAKENS AFTER PBOC SETS WEAKER MIDPOINT

China's yuan inched lower on Friday but fluctuated in a narrow range, after the central bank set a slightly weaker-than-expected midpoint rate. The People's Bank of China set the midpoint rate at 6.3825 per dollar prior to market open, weaker than the previous fix of 6.3803. In the spot market, the yuan opened at 6.3835 per dollar and was changing hands at 6.3860 by midday, 9 pips weaker from the previous late session close. The yuan hit a near six-year high against major peers on Thursday, on investor views that authorities are likely to tolerate a rise in the currency, at least in the near-term. While a central bank body in China said on Thursday that two-way fluctuations in the yuan will become normal, it added that the official goal was to keep the yuan at a reasonable and balanced level. The yuan earlier in the week was also underpinned by a meeting between US President Joe Biden and Chinese leader Xi Jinping, which currency traders said offered signs of improved bilateral relations and chances of partial tariff removals. China posted a trade surplus of $84.54 bn last month, the highest on record. Traders said this should continue to underpin the local currency in short term.

50% PROBABILITY

Sensex may hit 70,000 levels by Dec 2022, say Morgan Stanley analysts

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA'S equity market outperformance relative to emerging markets is likely to pause in 2022, said analysts at Morgan Stanley on Friday.

However, they expect (50% probability) the benchmark index — Sensex — to hit the 70,000-mark by December 2022 — up around 16% from the current levels. Sensex at this level means it will trade at a trailing P/E (price-to-earnings ratio) multiple of 26x, ahead of the 25-year average of 19.7x.

Morgan Stanley's assessment comes days after economists at India's central bank (RBI) raised concern that valuations of Indian equities seem stretched by most conventional yardsticks, such as price-to-earnings multiples and yield differentials with benchmark bonds. So far in calendar year 2021, the S&P BSE Sensex has rallied 24.58%.

Talking about the pause, analysts at Morgan Stanley said Indian equities are running into many challenges, including the US rate cycle, rising oil prices, elections in key states, potential Covid wave 3, upward inflexion in domestic interest rates, rich headline valuations and strong relative trailing performance. "We have tactically downgraded India to equal-weight in our GEMs (global emerging markets) country portfolio," it added.

Many challenges

Analysts at Morgan Stanley said Indian equities are running into many challenges, including the US rate cycle, rising oil prices, elections in key states, potential Covid wave 3 among others

However, they also believe that India appears to be in a structural uptrend with a likely new profit cycle, supportive policy, likely rise in fixed income flows, new issuances and falling return correlations with the world. "While headline valuations look rich, they must be seen in the context of depressed long- term earnings. We expect earnings to compound 27% annually over the next couple of years and the Sensex to rise 16% in our base case to 70,000 (Dec-22)," the analysts noted.

In case of a bull run, the probability for which is pegged at 30%, the Sensex may even climb to 80,000-mark. However, if bears take control of the Dalal Street, chances of which are 20%, the BSE Sensex may tumble down to 50,000 level, noted Morgan Stanley.

Bringing crypto under tax net may require change in law

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AS the government is considering bringing cryptocurrencies under the tax net, it has hinted that it may require changes in tax laws, which could be in the Budget next year.

"I understand that already people are paying taxes on it. Now that it has really grown a lot, we will see whether we can actually bring in some changes in law position or not. But that would be a Budget activity. We are already nearing the Budget, we have to look at that point of time," Revenue Secretary Tarun Bajaj said in an interview to a news agency.

On being asked if the government is considering collecting tax at source, the secretary said, "if we come up with a new law then we will see what is to be done".

He also hinted that people who are involved with the trading of crypto can also be put under tax ambit.

"But yes, if you make money you have to pay taxes... We have already got some taxes, some have treated it as an asset and paid capital gains tax on it," he said.

"There would already be such things available in other services also. So whatever GST rate they are taxed at, that will be applicable on them. They have to get themselves registered. The GST law is very clear. If there is an activity, if there is a broker who is helping people and charging brokerage fee, GST would get charged," Bajaj said.

The comment came in the backdrop of possible introduction of a bill on cryptocurrencies during the winter session of Parliament beginning Nov 29. Currently, there is no regulation or ban on use of cryptocurrencies in the country.

And even when the government is initiating a discussion, there are already divided verdict over crypto, including strong reservation from the Reserve Bank of India and some of party's own members.

Indian EV market set to lead globally; may peak $200 bn by 2030

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

THE electric vehicle market in India is poised to emerge as the leading market in the world, and it might be over $200 billion by 2030.

Electric vehicle manufacturers and experts in the field said that the country needs to focus on renewable energy, charging stations and strengthening its supply chain.

Given the number of EV manufacturers in India and also consumers' readiness for EV adoption, the mobility landscape has been evolving over the years. A report by India Energy Storage Alliance estimated that the EV market in India is likely to increase at a CAGR of 36% until 2026. Also, the EV battery market is forecast to expand at a CAGR of 30% during the same period.

Speaking at the Bengaluru Tech Summit (BTS 2021), Meher Energy Ventures CEO Mustafa Wajid said, "We need to get our ecosystem of supply chain right. India can be the largest market for electric vehicles and also a hub for the light vehicle industry worldwide. There is a billion-dollar opportunity and we need to focus on renewable energy."

Experts pointed out the country's renewable energy capacity stands at 100 GW and it has plans to add 400 GW by 2030. Ather Energy, which is planning for an IPO in two years, has set up over 20 fast-charging points, and is growing rapidly.

Ather Energy Co-founder and CEO Tarun Mehta said OEMs (Original Equipment Manufacturers) supply chain capability is very strong but the missing piece is, unfortunately, most of the supply chain has not been taught how to build anything new. "It takes on average 5-6 times longer to introduce a new design in India compared to China," he said.

OIL ON BOIL

Brent Crude prices touch $80 a barrel, may hit 3-year high

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BRENT crude prices on Friday closed below $79.04 per barrel, lowest since 30 September 2021. The crude prices on Friday closed $2.20 lower than its Thursday closing levels. For the past over one and a half months, the crude prices were hovering over the $80 a barrel level, even touching three-years high of over $85 on several occasions.

According to experts, crude oil has witnessed mixed trade in the last few sessions and the relatively flat close reflects a lack of confidence in the market. The market is waiting for clarity on the US and China policies to control energy prices.

"Crude may remain choppy unless there are fresh triggers. However, we do not expect the US or China to take aggressive measures and this may keep prices supported," Ravindra Rao, Head Commodity Research at Kotak Securities had predicted on Wednesday.

The petrol, diesel prices in India witnessed a record high before they were cut down sharply on the eve of Diwali.

The move, many claimed, came as the government started receiving flak after petrol, diesel prices saw a record high, and went over ₹100 in most places.

Following this, many states also reduced Value Added Tax (VAT) on their part amid skyrocketing price of petrol and diesel in India.

The pump price of petrol in Delhi is ₹103.97 a litre and the diesel price is ₹86.67 a litre. Petrol rates in India are revised on a daily basis.

Govt's 5-yr plan to reach $300-bn digital economy

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

INDIA will follow a 5-year perspective plan on the roadmap to achieve $300-billion digital economy target that we have set for ourselves in the electronics sector, said MoS Electronics and IT Rajeev Chandrasekhar.

The minister, while speaking at the Valedictory Session at the 4th CII Global Electronics Summit titled – India gearing up to manufacture for the World also mentioned India's policy around the electronic sector is broadening and deepening electronics ecosystem.

Recently, the IT ministry released a vision document on 'increasing India's electronics exports and share in global value chain.' The vision document suggests the country needs a policy prescription to grow from the current about $75 billion in 2020-21 to $300 billion by 2025.

The minister said electronics manufacturing was almost a dead activity in the country prior to 2014.

"Since 2014, under the guidance of our prime minister we have demonstrated that electronics manufacturing is something that we are capable of.

Although we are just 3% of the $1.5 trillion Global electronics market which is a small drop in the ocean but we have made tremendous progress from being at 1.9 lakh crore (2014) to 5 lakh crore (2019-20)," informed the minister.

While addressing the gathering, the minister also highlighted the MeitY's vision 1,000 days that aims towards achieving $1 trillion Digital economy for AtmaNirbhar Bharat. "There may be different opinions on the means to reach the ultimate Goal of $300 billion Digital economy, but there is absolute alignment of intention amongst all stakeholders towards reaching it," said the minister.

CII had organised a 2 day Global Electronics Summit where in different sessions were organized on Gearing up India to Manufacture for the World.

'GOOD IF BOWLERS GET ANGRY WHEN DROPPED'

In the final part of the interview with former bowling coach Bharat Arun, he speaks about his coaching methodology, convincing the team management in going down this route and his conversations with bowlers after they were dropped. Venkata Krishna B listened

Bharat Arun (right)

Did your project to build a core of fast bowlers start in 2014 or later?
When you get into the Indian team, you would like to make a difference. Bring something new to the table. But at the same time, you don't want to be shooting too soon because the first thing you need to do is understand a player. It takes time. I always believed coaching is all about coaching the player and not coaching the sport. So I wanted to have a firm understanding of each bowler because each one is different. That understanding would go a long way in our communication. Any relationship is built on trust. I needed to get the trust of the players before they listened to me. So I thought first let me just sit back, observe what is going on, and see where are the changes and what are the things I can bring on to help the team. So the first year went in observing and unfortunately before I could take any further my stint ended when Anil Kumble took over. For about 9-10 months I was out. Then again Ravi brought me back to the Indian team.

How was the fast-bowling culture in the 80s and 90s when compared to now?
There were a lot of myths in those days handed down by generations where they said weight-training is not recommended for fast bowlers and it is going to make you stiff and not good and a pacer should do running all the time. See, fast-bowling is an explosive activity. Actually, any activity in cricket is explosive. Be it batting, where you need to hit big shots, run between the wickets... In fielding, you are chasing the ball all of a sudden. And then there is a period of inactivity. So when only explosive activity is going on, all we were doing was slow marathon running and stretching exercises... which may help, but these are not directly helpful to what you are doing on the field. Now, lot of learning and studies have helped.

EXPRESS SPECIAL

Did it take a lot of effort to get everyone on board?
When we spoke to Virat and Ravi, they were up for it. So that was a big step for us. And then we spoke to the NCA, and they too were ready to be on board because we needed a strong support system and luckily Rahul Dravid became the NCA coach and there was considerable support from the academy for us to carry on with the project. As far as the rest, the fast bowlers were taken into confidence and they were told about the plan and they agreed.

A few seasons back the BCCI tried having 4mm grass in Ranji. Did that also contribute in increasing the fast-bowling pool?
When you start bowling on helpful tracks it is a big fillip to a young bowler coming up. He is willing to bend his back and when he sees a pitch that is not responsive, he holds back and it is not good for them. So every time they see a wicket where they can go all out, they bring the best out of them. But, yes, once they achieve the objective, then they have to adjust to different conditions and that is a skill.

What were your conversations with a bowler who is dropped or rested?
See this team revolves around being fearless and honest. When a player is dropped, it is my responsibility to tell him why he is dropped. It is being brutal, honest and telling him either your bowling doesn't suit these conditions or you need to work more on your consistency or whatever it may be. But an honest message goes to the bowler. They may be angry with us and it has happened. And it is good because it needs to hurt them. It will make them work harder. Now they have the confidence that when we drop them for some reason... if they can correct it, they can get back to the team. The job of giving the confidence is on us once that initial drama is over.

Spinners deliver series victory over Kiwis

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

THE efficiency of a spinner in the shortest format is quite underrated. Even when T20 was just being adopted in different nations, one feared for the spinners. There have been instances when batters have got the upper hand over spinners in many a matches, but that only allowed them to develop new skills. R Ashwin is one prime example of a bowler who is using his intelligence and skills to bamboozle batsmen. The recently concluded T20 World Cup and the ongoing India-New Zealand series, including the second T20I in Ranchi, being a case in point, on Friday.

With New Zealand asked to bat first, the Kiwis had come with an intention of playing fearless cricket. They did so with the score reading 56/1 in five overs as Martin Guptill hit three fours and two sixes in his 15-ball 31. However, runs dried with Ashwin operating at the other end.

Even with dew around, the off-spinner was not giving any freebies, bowling a tight line and length along with his mix of variations, which was making life difficult for the batters. What impressed was his control over his deliveries — did not bowl a single over-pitched delivery. Just to keep the batters guessing, he also gave the ball a bit of air at times. On the other hand, with a wicket-to-wicket approach by Axar Patel, New Zealand players were not given any room to work around with. It was the brilliance of the spin duo, which brought India back into the game as New Zealand managed 153/6, a target definitely below par-score on the pitch.

Here are some stats for their dominance in Ranchi: In the middle stages, they bowled seven overs and just conceded only 42 runs for one wicket. Such numbers are like gold dust, primarily at a venue where the dew was present since the initial stage. The presence of dew makes it difficult for spinners to grip the ball. That Ashwin and Axar repeatedly used towel to dry the ball, showed how difficult it was even to grip the ball.

Also, there seems to be a certain level of confidence skipper Rohit Sharma has on Ashwin, whose one over was kept for the latter phase. When the ball was thrown at him for his last over, he responded with a wicket and three dot balls in the 16th over. After returning with figures of 2/23 on Wednesday, on Friday, he finished with 4-0-19-1.

If the spinners stifled Tim Southee and his men, Harshal Patel, who made his debut, brought his IPL success formula to international cricket.

Brief scores: NZ 153/6 in 20 ovs (Phillips 34, Guptill 31, Mitchell 31; Patel 2/25, Ashwin 1/19, Axar 1/26) lost to India 155/3 in 17.2 ovs (Rahul 65, Rohit 55).

Karnataka set for Vidarbha clash in SMA Trophy semis

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

IT has not been a smooth ride for Karnataka in the knockout stages of the Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy. If they defeated Saurashtra in the last over of the pre quarterfinals, Manish Pandey's men edged past Bengal in the Super Over to reach the last four. To be fair, it is always difficult when a team loses key players after the group stages. Karnataka, however, won their last two matches without Mayank Agarwal, Prasidh Krishna, Devdutt Padikkal and K Gowtham, who are away due to India and India A duties.

Things are not going to get any easier against an unbeaten Vidarbha in the semifinals at in Delhi on Saturday. Vidarbha batters, including Atharva Taide, Jitesh Sharma and Akshay Wadkar have impressed.

Hence, Karnataka bowlers will have to be on top of their game. As for the spinners, they look quite strong with the likes of KC Cariappa and J Suchith in their ranks. But, there is lack of experience in the pace attack without Prasidh Krishna. For instance, Vijaykumar Vyshak, Vidhyadhar Patil and MB Darshan featured in the last game, and they have a combined experience of 11 T20 domestic matches. However, Vyshak, who has scalped seven wickets in the tournament, feels that their KSCA league and KPL experience in the past has helped them and is hopeful of a good show in the next game.

"There is always room for getting better every game. As a bowling unit, we are doing well. We will take the positives and we have also looked at our bowling videos. We have seen what the areas we can improve upon are. We will come back harder in next game," said Vyshak.

BFC take on NorthEast

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

ATK Win
In the first game of the season, ATK Mohun Bagan beat Kerala Blasters 4-2 on Friday.

BENGALURU FC were below par in the Indian Super League last season, finishing seventh. With the high standards that they have set for themselves, it was a failure. However, the Blues will be eager to deliver this season under Marco Pezzaiuoli. They are set to start their ISL campaign against North-East United FC (NEUFC) in Goa, on Saturday.

"Last season, BFC were not really successful, that is why we need to change something. It takes time, you can't switch on the lights and say that we are BFC. We will be trying to do our best every game. Our team will be fighting to get all three points," said Pezzaiuoli.

Bengaluru have a decent mix of players in the squad. Their foreigners include Cleiton Silva, Prince Ibara among others while Sunil Chhetri is their best Indian player. Though Bengaluru have some top players, NorthEast, who reached the semifinals of the league last season, will be a difficult team to beat.

Thriving farm sector at a new high

The Yogi Adityanath government has been on a mission of bringing about effective change in the life of farming community in the state. In the last 55 months of its regime, the government has been laying high emphasis on strengthening the sector by ensuring everything that helps strengthen the farm sector that has the largest share in the state's economy. Steps have been taken to ensure adoption of scientific farming for higher yields, availability of inputs and implements and financial support through various means including effective implementation of central government's farmer welfare scheme, the Kisan Kalyan Mission. As a matter of fact, pro-farmer steps have been among the top priorities of the government as it believes that without happy farmers the state cannot turn into a happy state.

Even during the COVID-19 Pandemic period when all the industries were facing closure, sugar mills of Uttar Pradesh continued their crushing operations. It was the commitment of government for safeguarding the interests of farmers that the supply of the sugarcane remained uninterrupted even during the lockdown period.

—Yogi Adityanath
Chief Minister, Uttar Pradesh

Pro-farmer attitude

Pro-farmer attitude of the government was established in its very first cabinet meeting in which farm loans worth Rs 36,000 crore of 86 lakh farmers were waived off. After it, the government started taking measures one by one to improve the conditions of the sector. Irrigation facilities being essential to ensure better yield in the fields, the government took up completing a number of long pending irrigation projects. Subsidies have been given for modern farm tools and implements and more than 63.77 lakh farmers have been imparted scientific knowledge on farming through Million Farmers schools (MFS).

The MFS, also popularly known as Kisan Pathshala, was initiated in 2017 to impart knowledge on making farming more profitable and sustainable. It has also made UP farmers resilient by promoting integrated and diversified farming systems. This has been in addition to the existing improvement programmes like the Agricultural Technology Management Agency (ATMA) and setting up of 20 Krishi Vigyan Kendras (KVKs) across the state.

Record production

All these measures have resulted in increase in the production. The state, in the latest agricultural season, produced record 2399 lakh metric tonnes of food grains. The state government also increased the Minimum Support Price (MSP) for various crops while bringing more crops under the MSP regime. In some cases, the MSP has almost doubled.

Record Procurement

Besides, the government also ensured timely procurement and payments to the farmers. The Yogi government has so far procured record 435 lakh metric tonnes of food grains and more than Rs 79,000 crore have been paid to the farmers as prices. It has also transferred an amount of Rs 37,521 crore to 253,98,000 farmers under the Pradhan Mantri Kisan Samman Nidhi Yojana. Similarly, under the Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana, a compensation of Rs 2,376 crore has been made to the farmers. Also, crop loans worth Rs 4.72 lakh crore have been disbursed to the farmers. As many as 1.66 crore Kisan Credit Cards have been distributed to the farmers. The process is still on.

Sugarcane cultivation goes up

Thanks to Yogi government's policies, the area under sugarcane cultivation has increased by 1.34 lakh hectares in the last 4.5 years. This has resulted in record increase in total sugarcane production leading to significant rise in farmers' income. The Sugarcane Department's statistics reveal that the farmers' income has gone up by Rs 22,000 per hectare during this period. Taking care of the sugarcane farmers, government ensured payment of more than Rs 1.44 lakh crore to them as sugarcane prices. Sugarcane rates have also been increased recently.

70 lakh quintal seeds distributed

The Yogi Government has distributed 70 lakh quintal seeds to the farmers. Sowing on five lakh hectares of land has been done through trench method. Besides, co-cropping cultivation was done over 4 lakh hectares of land whereas drip irrigation plants were installed on 4,042 hectares. All these efforts of the Government have contributed to increase in yield as well as in farmers' income.

Various other steps

The Yogi government has so far exempted 45 agricultural produce markets from duty. It has also reduced the market fee by 1 per cent. It has upgraded 27 mandis and set up 125 e-NAM mandis. A grant of Rs 2151.30 crore has also been transferred to the accounts of farmers against agricultural investments.

It has made a provision of Rs 500 crore under Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatana Kalyan Yojana, under which even tenants and sharecroppers are eligible for benefits.

The government's commitment to providing water to every field has resulted in completion of 13 major irrigation projects. Other 12 irrigation projects are nearing completion. All this has brought additional 03.77 lakh hectare farming area under irrigation.

Some of the major steps of UP government that have positively impacted the farmers' life may be enumerated as –

- Sugarcane farmers of the state being paid more than Rs 1.45 lakh crore as sugarcane prices
- Increase in the sugarcane area and record production of 476 lakh metric tonnes of sugar
- The government issued free license to restart existing Khandsari units so that excess sugarcane is utilized in making jaggery and other traditional products. As many as 267 new Khandsari units were also approved creating additional crushing capacity of 66,450 TCD.

- Rs 2,376 crore paid in compensation to farmers under the Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana
- Crop loans worth Rs 425,000 crore disbursed to farmers
- Grants worth Rs 2151.30 crore transferred to farmers' accounts against agricultural investments
- 20 sugar mills including Ramala, Pipraich, Munderwa sugar mills modernized and expanded creating more crushing capacity.

Rs 384 cr. released to compensate crop losses to over 11 lakh farmers

The Uttar Pradesh government has allocated over Rs 384 crore as relief for farmers suffering from crop losses due to torrential rains and flash floods in the current financial year. This relief will benefit more than 11 lakh farmers across the State. In wake of the natural calamities, the financial assistance is being given from the State Disaster Relief Fund (SDRF).The government released these funds to respective district collectors following an assessment of crop losses. Over all crop losses in the state have been pegged at nearly Rs 384 crore while number of suffering farmers is around 11.44 lakh. District collectors will distribute the relief to farmers through DBT.This relief has been released in different installments corresponding to assessment of losses. The government had released an instalment of Rs 102.638 crore as relief to over 2,98,496 farmers affected by the flood. Earlier, the government had released more than Rs. 282 crore in three instalments including- Rs 74.60 crore to about 2.08 lakh farmers, a total of Rs 160 crore approximately to about 4,77,581 farmers, and a fund of approximately Rs. 48.206 crore to 1,39,863 farmers identified after primary survey. Standing firmly with the farmers, the Chief Minister has also instructed the officials to give appropriate and immediate compensation to the farmers.

Modern crops increasing farmers' income

The Uttar Pradesh government's efforts to promote scientific, modern and innovative farming as a means to increase farmers' income have started giving rich dividends. Farmers in the state are not only embracing modern techniques and tools, but they are diversifying and adopting crops that are highly profitable for them and nutritious for the consumers.

The red-violet variant of the popular green vegetable ladyfinger is now available in the market. The crop promises to turn the fate of farmers while delivering lots of benefits to the consumers. This highly nutritious variant of ladyfinger is fetching almost twice the price of the common ladyfinger.

The Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath's initiatives to promote strawberry farming in Jhansi prompted many farmers to take up the new crop for area after a young girl Gulreen Chawla's experiments resulted in wonderful production of strawberries in Jhansi.

Many farmers have taken up to new crops like strawberries in west UP districts of Saharanpur, Muzaffarnagar, Shamli, Meerut and Hapur. Banana farming is on the rise in Western UP region. Experimentalist farmers in eastern UP district of Chandauli and western UP districts like Saharanpur, Muzaffarnagar and Shamli have taken up to growing organic Taiwanese melons. The Kala Namak rice of Siddharthnagar district is also being grown in adjoining districts like Basti, and Gonda. Highly nutritious 'black rice' is being grown in Chandauli district. The experiment started with 10 hectares area has now reached 400 hectares. This variety is sold at more Rs. 400-600 per kilogram.

Most interesting is the shrimp farming in brackish waters in Hathras and Mathura districts. All these efforts are setting examples in doubling the incomes of farmers. The government is planning to organize similar festivals in other places as well.

Sugarcane farming sweetens farmers' life

With pro-farmer policies of the Yogi Adityanath government being implemented effectively, a sugarcane revolution is taking place in Uttar Pradesh. The continuous growth in area under sugarcane cultivation and resultant crop production has kept the state at first position in Sugarcane and sugar production in the country for four consecutive years. The state has witnessed record 476 lakh MT production of sugarcane. Keeping in view the increased volume of sugarcane availability for crushing, the government has taken steps for expansion of the crushing capacity in 20 sugar mills. It has also approved licenses for 272 new Khandsari units.

Also, the government has been keeping a tab on payment of cane prices to the farmers. During the past 4.5 years, the government has ensured payment of more than Rs. 1.44 lakh crore to farmers as cane prices. The government has also made payment of the overdue sugarcane price for the period before 2017. More than Rs 1.45 lakh crore has been paid to more than 45.44 lakh sugarcane farmers in the last four and a half years. This payment when compared to the payment made to farmers in the previous government between 2007 to 2012 is almost three times. It is one and a half times of payments made between 2012 to 2017. The government has paid almost 99.94 percent of the arrears to cane farmers which is to the tune of Rs 35,443.38 crore. This payment was made in the crushing season from 2017-2018. Apart from this hundred percent sugarcane price has been ensured for the crushing season 2018-2019 and 2019-2020.

The commitment of the government was visible even during the height of the COVID pandemic when unhindered operation of sugar mills was ensured. COVID-19 protocol was introduced in all 119 mills in the state and all of them were made operational. More than 47 percent of the country's sugar is now being produced in UP and this is no surprise. It contributes 20.18 percent of the farm sector volume.

Closed mills operationalized

Currently, a total of 119 sugar mills are operational in the state as there are more than 45.44 lakh sugarcane supplying farmers. Overall number of cane growers is more than 67 lakh as promotional policies of the state have seen the area under sugarcane cultivation grow every year.

It may be recalled that 30 sugar mills were closed during 2007-2017 period. The establishment of two new sugarmills at Pipraich and Munderwa (10,000 TCD respectively) and three sugar mills of the private sector which had been closed earlier Gangalhedi (5000 TCD) Manjhavali (3500 TCD) and Bulandshahar (3500 TCD) have been revived by the incumbent government.

Increasing crushing capacity of existing sugarmills has also taken place. The crushing capacity of 11 sugarmills nine of which are private mills and one each is in the cooperative sector have been increased to 23,850 TCD.

Increasing the average incomes

As a result of various sugarcane development programmes in the state, the average production of sugarcane has increased from 72.38 to 81.50 tonnes per hectare. Using better varieties of cane seed has resulted in increase of sugar percentage in the cane. As a result farmers' incomes have gone up, too. This increase in production of 9.12 tonnes per hectare has resulted in an increase of Rs 29,184 in the average per hectare income of sugarcane farmers.

New Khandsari units

For the first time in 25 years, new licenses have been issued to set up 272 Khandsari units. Out of these 176 Khandsari units have been operationalized. This has meant an investment of Rs. 388 crores in these new units. About 20,000 direct and indirect jobs have been created through these new units. Also, licenses of old and closed Khandsari units have been reissued to make the units operational. This has ensured utilization of additional sugarcane production and healthy sugar products.

Record Ethanol Production

A record production of ethanol has taken place in the state due to the expansion of the sugar industry all around. This has taken place through 53 distilleries during the sugarcane crushing season from 2017-18 to July 31, 2021. An ethanol plant has been set up in Sathiyaon and Najibabad Cooperative Mills. The Pipraich Sugarmill of Gorakhpur will be the first sugar mill in North India to make ethanol directly from sugarcane juice by using a different technology.

Due to the low cost of making ethanol directly from sugarcane juice the income is estimated to be almost double as compared to making sugar.

- Sugar industry in Uttar Pradesh thriving as never before
- A record production of 476 lakh metric tonnes of sugar has taken place
- Minimum support price increased to Rs 350 per quintal
- A major expansion of 20 sugarmills in state
- Licenses issued for 272 new Khandari units in the state
- More than Rs 1.44 lakh crore paid to farmers as cane price
- Farm machinery bank to reduce environmental damage in 146 Cooperative development societies

With comedian Vir Das' recent monologue having created an uproar, we speak to city-based comedians who tell us why the business of comedy is a tightrope walk

TALE OF TWO INDIAS

Slapping criminal charges and cancelling comedy shows sets a bad precedent. While Vir Das can fight and resist the backlash against him, artistes with very little resources, like myself, find it hard to fight them
-Sonu Venugopal

Vir Das should have been responsible and careful with his choice of words [I come from an India where we worship women during the day and gangrape them at night] , especially when he was addressing a huge gathering at a global platform
-Sunetra Pandit

SANATH PRASAD

I am from the India that is still scared of what the older generation thinks about us'; 'I come from an India where we trust our neighbours with our house keys but also envy them for owning a bigger TV'; 'I come from an India that is ready to encourage debate, accept criticism and make a sincere honest attempt to grow and improve....' this is how Bengaluru-based stand-up comedians responded to the current buzzword on social media 'I come from an India'.

The monologue of Vir Das' Two Indias at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington DC, recently, has got netizens debating over what kind of India each of them comes from. The stand-up comedian's monologue has also sparked an uproar with a certain section of social media having taken offense to Das' points on crime against women, India-Pakistan cricket match sentiments and Bollywood goings-on. While some believe it was a 'well-crafted' speech, others say 'the choice of words needed to be careful'. Responding to the criticism of standup comedians always crossing the line, fellow artistes believe that putting an end to creativity can 'push comedy into coma'.

City-based standup comic Kritarth Srinivasan says, "If you are trying to make a statement, Vir Das' way of putting it was smart. The writing is well-thought out. It is not right to say he is only being pessimistic about India. Agreeing and disagreeing with Vir Das in itself reflects two types of India."

For Kannada standup comedian Sonu Venugopal, the video is pretty much non-controversial. "Vir Das is talking about India through his lens. There is nothing offensive about his comments on how crimes against women are rising... because it is the truth," she says, adding that what could possibly be offensive is when an artiste uses racial slurs and body shames. "Slapping criminal charges and cancelling comedy shows sets a bad precedent. While Vir Das can fight and resist the backlash against him, artistes with very little resources, like myself, find it hard to fight them," adds Venugopal.

Sunetra Pandit, a standup artiste from Lolbagh, a comedy club, believes that the choice of words when referring to the crimes against women should have been responsible. "Crime against women is committed in all countries. But Vir Das chose to speak only on behalf of India. His choice of words [I come from an India where we worship women during the day and gangrape them at night] should have been responsible and careful, especially when he was addressing a huge gathering at an international platform," says Pandit.

We must learn to laugh at ourselves, feels Dr Anil Abraham, standup comedian and dermatologist. "I come from an India that is ready to accept criticism and encourage debate. Comedy will have to die a natural death if there are lines drawn and limits set for laughter. We must learn to laugh at ourselves, from our foibles and set about correcting what we need to. The argument that this is an international platform does not hold good. It's a virtual world and every platform is an international one," he says.

Flowy skirts, trench coats, chocolate-coloured lipstick...here's how you can keep your fashion quotient up if you're planning to brave the incessant showers and step out this weekend

Raining styles

ANILA KURIAN

YOU never know how you should dress for the weather in Bengaluru. That's a common complaint as the city's weather tends to be unpredictable. However, with an orange alert as this weekend's forecast, Bengalureans are pulling out their warm and rain-proof wear.

Fashionistas in the city suggest a few tips and tricks to look stylish and trendy even as rain trickles through the day. "Layers are the way to go about it this weekend as you can always remove some of them if you feel too warm. It goes well with baggy clothes — a popular style now — and looks casual and stylish wherever you go," says fashion blogger Sahana Ramanand (@glamourjournals). To go along with the outfit and to navigate the weather at the same time, Ramanand recommends a trench coat and boots. "If it's an evening outing, there's nothing more stylish than a trench coat. If you don't have one, wear jackets and sweaters," she says, adding, "For a Sunday brunch, a flowy skirt or dress with a denim jacket, or a maxi dress with a comfortable jacket and accessories are options. Whatever you choose to wear, pick something that is weather- appropriate, else it'll automatically cancel the fashion quotient."

As footwear plays a very important role this season, social media influencer Namrata Kumari (@my_closetdiary) recommends crocs. "Sneakers are many people's go-to option but it tends to get dirty in the rain. If you don't have a problem with that, go for it," she says.

Namrata Kumari

"Wear shoes that you know will keep you warm, comfortable and not get you paranoid about their look after wearing them in the rain," adds Kumari. For this weekend, her go-to outfit is a fitted denim, a crop top and sock shoes. Kumari says, "Dark colours like brown, black, blue or rust are really good for the rainy season. Complete the look with chocolate or maroon lipstick and you're good to go."

Smita Roy Majumder

For personal stylist and wardrobe consultant Smita Roy Majumder, rubber boots are her best bet. "You can also opt for strappy sandals or leather slip-ons instead — whatever helps keep your feet dry. If you're going out for a party, wear thin strappy heels or sandals with your evening wear. Avoid anything that's open in the front or anything that has fabric for obvious reasons," she says.

Don't forget that this season requires you to look after your skin too. "A good skincare regime will bring an instant glow. So, have a good do-it-yourself pedicure and manicure and polish your nails for a mood booster," she says.

Goodbye ABD !

Royal Challengers Bangalore's star player Ab de Villiers announced his retirement from all forms of cricket on Friday. Calling it an 'end of an era' disappointed RCB fans shared memories of some of his iconic knocks that helped RCB win many cliffhanger matches. Fans recalled and cherished his stunning catch at the Chinnaswamy Stadium and also requested him to play one last match at Bengaluru. Taking to social media, former RCB skipper Virat Kohli said, " To the best player of our times and the most inspirational person I've met, you can be very proud of what you've done and what you've given to RCB my brother. This hurts my heart but I know you've made the best decision for yourself and your family like you've always done. I love you (sic)". Recalling his fond memory with ABD, actor Danish Sait said, "My favourite memory of you will always be of us stuck in an elevator in Mohali back in 2015. You were standing with a huge stack of papers, i asked you about them, & you said you were studying property law between IPL games. Only superman can study and play cricket. Love you (sic)".

SUPTA UTTHITA TADASANA

(FULL BODY STRETCH POSE)

This pose is done lying down on the back and stretching the body's two extremes – the toes pointing down and the fingers stretching up. It is mostly done at the end of a yoga session to help open the worked muscles, joints, and deep tissues. With every pose, there is a combination of stretching and contractions of the muscles or muscle groups. When a particular muscle is the target for stretching in a particular pose, there is always a set of some muscles that contract, to aid in lengthening them.

STEPS

- When you release from Vakrasana, stretch the legs out completely and slowly lie down on your back and relax to take a few breaths.
- Inhale and stretch the arms above your head in Namaste, feeling the deep stretch from the lower abdomen to the tips of the fingers and downwards from the hips to the tips of the toes.
- The stretch at the lower abdomen, helps to contract the entire body muscles, which further help to relieve any aches and pains as a symptom from the imbalance of the Manipura (Solar Plexus) Chakra, related to indigestion.
- You can remain here for about 6 breaths and focus on the stretch as the breathing is slow and deep while you remain with your eyes closed.
- The focus should be close to the centre of the body, the navel, where the heat is generated with the activation of the Manipura Chakra.

BENEFITS

- Helps boost energy in the body.
- Easy and best for mental stress, depression, high blood pressure, heart disease and insomnia. Patients suffering from these should practise this pose regularly.
- Can cure the weakness of the nervous system, tiredness and negative thinking.
- Body, mind, and brain and get complete rest, power, motivation and happiness.
- Helps develop concentration power.
- Practising this in between other asanas relieves the tiredness of the body in a short span of time.

LIMITATIONS

- People who are not able to lie on their back must avoid this pose.
- Those suffering from severe acidity may be hurt by lying on their back.
- Those who have an injury in the spine, abdomen, shoulders, neck, pelvis, or rib cage, have a weak nervous system, or are suffering from severe body pain or fibromyalgia should avoid this.

RAINY DAYS ALWAYS GET ME DOWN

RUBINATIONS
Rubi Chakravarti
Writer, actor and funny girl

Good morning Bangalore!

IT'S raining gorillas and orangutans! (might as well use similes of simians we are closely related to). One isn't quite sure whether it's morn or night so, I have taken a leap of faith by wishing my readers a pleasant morn. Please enjoy my convoluted language skills as I am reading Shashi Tharoor's Pax Indica with umpteen cups of scalding hot tea as the rain lashes our city. The complexities of nature deem, that it is precisely these climes that warrant our reading and partaking of tea, or eating pakoras and sipping tea type of behaviour. That being said, I have opted for a little of both!

Funnily enough The Carpenters wailing, 'Hanging around…nothing to do but frown. Rainy days and Mondays always get me down', didn't make a fig of a difference to my mood. I trotted off happily to have dinner with my good friend Prasad Bidapa. His friendship and mine go back to when I was a teenager. His wife, Judy, and I were classmates in college. Our children are about the same age and being auld Bangaloreans, our bond is very strong. We have seen each other invent and reinvent ourselves and I see a twinkle of pride in his eyes at my minor and major achievements. So when we all met up, the kids (who have known each other from school) and we, the atmosphere was charged with raucous laughter, drinking, eating and reminiscing. Perfect rainy day shenanigans!

Vishal Nagpal

I met the gregarious Kanishka Sharma a couple of years ago and we clicked instantly. Her forte wasn't F&B but more brand marketing. She teamed up with the talented chef Pallavi Menon to start Navu (us in Kannada) Project, a café serving bespoke cuisine at the Bangalore International Centre. Dining there has been on my bucket list for some time now, so when the brand Ambassador of Glen Fiddich, Angad Singh invited us to a very intimate soiree there, I couldn't really pass up that opportunity now could I? Single Malts are sophisticated swills for discerning palates and newer swills should be introduced or inducted in a setting that compliments the malt. Quaffing copious amounts of the said malt on the house does not a connoisseur make!

Vishal Nagpal has always been on my admiration list for his grit, tenacity and his ability to change and alter with the ever-changing scenario in Bangalore's robust F&B scene. He has many firsts to his credit so I was thrilled to be included in his list as a wine connoisseur and be invited to a very nouvelle concept café called Trippy Goat and the unveiling of an online app. The app is a real boon to novice wine drinkers and buyers. One doesn't have to start at rock bottom wines (like drinking vinegar) and work one's way up the taste profile. The app shortlists your taste preferences, stores it and suggests wines from a large repertoire of companies. The evening saw a large turnout of friends with discerning palates and people who know their 'stuff' rather than 'recent recruits' who will give you tasting notes on vinegar!

This week also brought its share of tears with the rain. I lost two friends. One was a childhood friend (the type you play cops and robbers with), and another was a woman who reminded me of me! She was outspoken, an alpha mom and a braveheart. Both were suffering and bravely fought their illnesses for a long time. I am glad they are rid of their suffering and now are free…but I weep and grieve with their families. There is a vacuum which can never be filled.

Later Garikapati in his speech said that he was very happy to be felicitated with Gandapendera on the land of Karnataka where Krishnadevaraya ruled. RAGE WELL CAPTURED

GARUDA GAMANA VRISHABHA VAHANA

Cast: Raj B Shetty, Rishab Shetty, Gopalkrishna Deshpande

Director: Raj B Shetty

A SHARADHAA

GARUDA Gamana Vrishabha Vahana (GGVV) is an extraordinary work of art. It is ruthless in its overall personality, and it is bold filmmaking, which tries to transform all its rage into a fire that warms rather than cause destruction.

GGVV entirely belongs to Raj B Shetty, who, after Ondu Motteya Kathe, has graduated to an impeccable style of filmmaking in his second outing. With some great sequences and impressive performances, the story of GGVV effortlessly glides through and is wonderfully elevated by Praveen Shriyan's cinematography and Midhun Mukundan's music.

The gangster drama is about the brotherhood between Shiva (Raj B Shetty) and Hari (Rishab Shetty) and is set in the coastal backdrop of Mangala Devi. Taking a leaf out of Sri Devi Mahatme Yakshagana performance, Raj has brought the character traits of Bramha - the creator, Vishnu - the maintainer, and Maheshwara - the destroyer. Shiva's disturbed childhood turns him into a rowdy who is overprotective of Hari. Enter Bramhaiyya (Gopalkrishna Deshpande), a sub-inspector who gets transferred to Mangala Devi. Their paths cross when Hari rises to become powerful and rule the coastal town. Will he get help from Shiva, or will this rising impact their relationship?

RATING 4/5

These sequences are reflective of the varied human emotions that end in a not-so-well thought-out climax. Although there is a repetition of a few scenes, the film maintains a high tempo. The filmmaker explores the culture of Mangala Devi, and does a fine job of pumping adrenaline into the scenes, which also brings out the loneliness, confusion, and inner turmoil.

While Raj Shetty breathes life into his role of Shiva, Rishab Shetty shines with a mature performance as Hari. Gopalkrishna Deshpande too does justify his director's trust in him. Every actor of this ensemble has done their part exceedingly well.

GGVV boasts of a good craft, and is well-written and well-made. Points to the team for not glorifying rowdyism in a film, which is essentially a gangster drama. The filmmaker has sketched out the character arc of a distraught child, who grows up to be a gangster, and the resulting complications. GGVV should be experienced with an open mind about appreciating the art of filmmaking.

WELL-CAST AND WELL-EXECUTED CYBER THRILLER

100

Cast: Ramesh Aravind, Rachita Ram, Poorna, and Vishwakarna

Director: Ramesh Aravind

A SHARADHAA

Actor Ramesh Aravind has time and again proved his mettle as a responsible filmmaker, and in 100, the director has dealt with the contemporary topic of cybercrime. The timing of this film is noteworthy considering digital crime is on the rise. 100 is an attempt at sensitising audiences about the crime.

Although adapted from a Tamil film, there are a lot of changes in 100. The film stars Ramesh Aravind as police officer Vishnu, whose integrity is tested when he is deputed to an intelligence bureau, where he is assigned the duty to wiretap calls of top bureaucrats and politicians. The major segment narrates how Vishu goes about leveraging his job to become a vigilante. A police officer, who is a family man, is surrounded by women in his family with a mother, sister Hima (Rachita Ram), wife Anaga (Poorna), and daughter. The movie subsequently unfolds about his various assignments, and how he crosses paths with one Harsha (Vishwakarna), which turns his family life upside down. The film is also about how he rescues his sister from an online stalker, which eventually ends in a cat-and-mouse game.

RATING 3.5/5

Combating cybercrime is the need of the hour, and the film's central theme is about online hackers, which makes it all the more interesting. Ramesh Aravind, narrates an important theme, with able support coming from cinematographer Satya Hegde and music director, Ravi Basrur.

Ramesh, as actor dons the cop's role with elan, and the performances of his fellow actors, especially rookie Vishwakarna is the strength of the film. Poorna and Rachita Ram too have a strong arc and excel in their respective roles.

The comic scenes featuring veteran actor Prakash Belawadi does lighten up the mood of 100. Ultimately, 100, depicting the dark side of social media and obsession with technology, highlights the thin line between our real and virtual worlds. Such will be the impact of the 100 that after watching the film, we might think twice to reveal any personal information on any digital platform.

A mediocre reboot that plays it too safe

GHOSTBUSTERS: AFTERLIFE

Cast: Mckenna Grace, Finn Wolfhard, Logan Kim, Carrie Coon, Paul Rudd

Director: Jason Reitman

GOPINATH RAJENDRAN

IMAGINE if you were to walk into your nearest supermarket and just as you were about to pick a pack of marshmallows, they develop hands, legs and a cute face... and begin attacking you! This scene from Ghostbusters: Afterlife best embodies the wackiness that defines this supernatural comedy sub-genre, executed best by the film's original, almost four decades ago. The massive task of living up to this franchise's name is a challenge that Ghostbusters II (1989), the gender-switched reboot of 2016, and now, this new reboot/sequel, have tried to replicate, but only to splatter like a blob of slime.

The 2016 fiasco seems disowned, and Afterlife focuses on the family of Dr Egon Spengler (played by the late Harold Ramis in the first two films). Post the incidents in New York, Spengler seems to have left his family to live a reclusive life in a small town called Summerville in Oklahoma. Years later, his daughter, a broke, single mother, Callie (Carrie Coon), hearing the news of her father's demise, comes to take over his property with her two children, Trevor (Finn Wolfhard) and Phoebe (Mckenna Grace). As the Spenglers ease into living in the new town, they discover their connection to the original Ghostbusters and this ends up becoming the problem of the film as well, this over-reliance on the original film.

RATING 2.5/5

Directed by Jason Reitman, the son of Ivan Reitman who directed the first two films and is on board the latest one as its producer, Afterlife concentrates more on fan service rather than using the source material as a building block to come up with something novel. And yet, it's strange that the makers opted to plant this story in a town backdrop given that the first two films are as synonymous with the Big Apple, as casino films are with Las Vegas. This not only lowers the stakes when it comes to CG-powered ghosts rampaging the town, but also brings down the overall scale of the film. The film, like the ghosts that come in it, seems to communicate that we shouldn't expect much, and this happens when you see a kid who does podcasts being named... Podcast.

What works in favour of this film, given the relatable, smaller cast, is how each of them gets fleshed out. We get to know that Phoebe, on whose delicate shoulders the film rests on, is the nerdy kid, akin to her grandfather, meanwhile her brother, Trevor is the awkward teen with a crush. Callie, meanwhile, is a single mother who would give anything in the world for some peace and a cup of wine, and finds solace in the company of Phoebe's teacher, Gary Grooberson (a criminally underutilised Paul Rudd). Unlike the 2016 film, which was a complete reboot because of Bill Murray's refusal to commit to the project and the death of fellow cast member Harold Ramis in 2014, Afterlife carefully picks out segments from the original film and interprets them in a modern world where a gang of paranormal investigation and elimination service providers get resurrected.

The first half of the film is careful in how it balances these aspects. We get to see the dilapidated but working Ectomobile, a ghost in the name of Muncher that is sure to remind fans of Slimer from the first film; the awkward romance between Trevor and Lucky Domingo (Celeste O'Connor); and a beautiful friendship that blooms between Phoebe and the fan-favourite, Podcast (played by Logan Kim). Only when the film steps into the fan-pleasing mode do we get subjected to nostalgic callbacks that add nothing to this predictable story. The film features a horde of cameos from the original cast members, and we get a mid and a post-credit scene too, but all of this is simply lip-service being paid, rather than an ode to the classic.

Ghostbusters: Afterlife plays it too safe with an unsurprising story, while establishing a new generation of Ghostbusters. This is an origins film, and the sequel has its work cut out if it is to protect this franchise from getting zapped by the Proton Pack and trapped inside the containment unit in which must go all reboots that bring nothing new to the table.

CE FEATURES

WE had reported earlier that actor Lizzy Caplan will star in an upcoming limited series titled Fleishman Is In Trouble. Now, the series has added actor Jesse Eisenberg to play the titular role.

Based on Taffy Brodesser-Akner's New York Times best-selling debut novel, the series will follow the story of Toby Fleishman, a recently separated man who dives into the world of dating apps with the kind of success he had never had in dating in his youth before he got married. But just at the start of his first summer of sexual freedom, his ex-wife disappears, leaving him with the kids and no hint of where she is or whether she plans to return. The newly eligible bachelor must juggle being a full-time parent, reconnecting with old friends, transitioning into a long-awaited promotion at the hospital he works at as a hepatologist, and the world of single women in New York City

Jesse Eisenberg

Brodesser-Akner will write the nine-episode series and executive produce it along with Sarah Timberman, Carl Beverly and Susannah Grant. Jonathan Dayton and Valerie Faris will direct multiple episodes of the show.

Eisenberg is best known for his roles in The Social Network, as Lex Luthor in DCEU, Zombieland and Now You See Me. The actor is gearing up to star in When You Finish Saving the World, which he wrote and will direct.
